'Comforts of Home' for Clarence's Old Age

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK

The art of septuagenarian Clarence Schmidt leaves plenty of room for debate. Some writers, though intrigued by his work, label it "junk art." On the other hand, a curator of one of the biggest museums in the world calls it "a fine example of American primitive."

If there is debate on Schmidt's work, its overall message is clear. It is a sometimes quaint, often beautiful, strongly melancholy summing up of society's recent history of discarding its overabundance of possessions.

From dumps and donations, Schmidt has taken broken toys, shattered mirrors, abandoned parts of cars, bottles and road signs and electrical appliances long since short-circuited and—over a period of 40 years—transformed them into an outdoor sculpture garden atop Ohayo Mountain that has attracted press, radio, television and thousands of visitors.

Once, while still young and before becoming one of the first dropouts from modern day society, Clarence Schmidt lived a fairly normal life in a house in Queens. After coming to Woodstock, he settled into a tiny cabin to begin his life's work. Eventually, the cabin grew through his unceasing labors into a towering, seven-story "house of glass," jutting high atop the mountain and tunneling far below into the ground.

When, several winters ago, that edifice—the subject of magazine articles around the globe—burned to the ground, the aging artist started anew. Building a tiny tree house on the grounds, he continued his work, creating new and—some felt—totally different art.

This winter, fire again forced him from the tree house, this time with burns requiring hospitalization. After long weeks of recuperation, Schmidt is back home in Woodstock, but homeless and penniless. From Queens to cabin to pop art castle to tree house, Clarence—nearing 80 and hobbling on crutches—has been accepting whatever bed has been offered nightly since his release from the hospital.

Special

When workers for Family, the Woodstock organization that deals in solving community and individual problems, found him sleeping one night last week on the floor of a local restaurant, they started a campaign to make life more tolerable for the aging patriarch.

Since then, Clarence has had a clean bed every night as a guest in somebody's home; has been outfitted with new clothes; was the guest of honor at a surprise party Sunday night where food abounded and hundreds listened as he read his "manuscript" laced with biblical terminology; has even been feted to wine in silver goblets on a visit to a mountaintop mansion.

But Family's ultimate aim is something more permanent for an artist it feels did much to help put Woodstock on the map. Distressed that some have suggested that Clarence be relegated to an old age home through Medicare, they are fighting against such an eventuality.

What Family and other Schmidt friends want for Clarence is a new home. To build him one that will offer the simple comforts in his old age, they have started a fund in his name at the Woodstock branch of the Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties.

Family is asking that anyone interested in his plight contact the bank and donate to the fund. And, since the raising of money and the building of a house will take time, admirers of Clarence and his work who are able to "put him up" for a night or more until his new house is built, are asked to contact Family.

In the meantime, taking care of Clarence has fallen mostly on the long-haired shoulders of Woodstock's new generation of residents. With first hand knowledge of what it means to be classified as "street people," they have taken Clarence off the street and given him food and lodging.

Their hope, now, is that the Woodstock community as a whole will "do right" by Clarence—certainly a controversial and colorful eccentric—but one who has definitely made his mark on Woodstock.

Bell, Rolison Tell School Board Assn.

Local Control Favored

By JON POWERS

ROSENDALE

Both Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) and State Senator Jay P. Rolison (R-Poughkeepsie) said Wednesday that they do not favor the elimination of local control over education.

Speaking before the Ulster County School Boards Association at Williams Lake in Rosendale, Bell and Rolison discussed the first five chapters of the sweeping Fleischmann Commission report on education. The Fleischmann Commission recommended that the state assume complete control for financing public schools, and that the cost per pupil spent in each district be equalized.

But both Bell and Rolison said they thought individual school districts should retain some control over the amount of money collected and spent.

"It is clear to me," said Rolison, "that the main thrust of the Fleischmann Commission report is to—if not eliminate—water down the function of education at the local level. The basic issue we all have to face is, are we going to have local control over our schools. Some people feel that local control has become obsolete. I for one don't think so."

The Fleischmann Commission has reported that, if the state were to assume complete financial responsibility for education, it would not approve of the sweeping Fleischmann Commission report on education. "If the local taxpayer," said Rolison, "is willing to make a little extra effort to improve the quality of education in his district, then he should be able to."

The Fleischmann Commission further recommends that the per pupil expenditure of the wealthiest school districts be frozen, and that the poorer school districts be raised to that level. Bell vehemently disagreed.

All of the school districts in Ulster County, with the possible exception of Wallkill, would be frozen," said Bell, "and that means retrenchment. It won't help Ulster County. It will hurt us. It means that our school districts will be frozen at their present level of spending." Bell added, "The local people should be given the opportunity to exercise their own judgment."

Congressman Fish refuses to sign anti-busing amendment petition. Story Page 4.

Both Bell and Rolison said they favored full state funding of education, but not if local communities are denied the right to exceed the state level to obtain higher quality education. And both agreed with Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools of the Ontario Central School District, that flat state aid grants may inhibit local incentive to continually improve the educational quality.

Rolison reviewed the two latest chapters of the commission's report that deal with desegregation of the state's schools. He said it was a mistake to assume that desegregation is not a problem in Ulster County, but he did not elaborate.

However, he said that most districts in Ulster County, with the possible exception of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated, are not racially unbalanced and would probably not be affected by any desegregation rulings.

Rolison refused to criticize the report, stating "It would do no service to shoot it down after it's only been out for two weeks. It must be carefully studied." Ten chapters of the report have yet to be released.

Bell, however, expressed his disapproval of some parts of the report, but emphasized that "These are only my initial conclusions. I haven't seen the full report yet."

According to Bell, the Fleischmann Commission hopes for federal aid totaling 25-30 percent of the state's educational costs. Rolison, however, said he would prefer to see the federal government assume a greater financial responsibility for the state's welfare costs, and let the state and local governments share the burden of education.

Rolison termed the Fleischmann Commission report "The most important work ever released in the area of education in New York State." He added, "Something will definitely be done. Education is our number one priority." But he said the state legislature will "absolutely not" take action on the Fleischmann Commission report during its current session in Albany.

Harry Cornwell, president of the UCSBA, chaired Wednesday's meeting. Ben Miller of Ellenville, president of the New York State School Boards Association, spoke briefly before Bell and Rolison took the podium. Also in attendance was Thomas Reynolds, president of the Kingston Board of Education, and UCSBA vice-president.

Massive U.S. Air Armada Is Warning to N. Viets

SAIGON (AP) — The United States marshaled its biggest air armada in months today as a warning to North Vietnam and sharply stepped up its air strikes in South Vietnam to counter recent increases in Communist ground attacks.

The show of aerial strength was intended as a warning to North Vietnam of heavy retaliation in the event of the big Communist offensive predicted this month. Nearly 400 fighter-bombers and B52 heavy bombers were in Vietnam, Thailand and off the coast of North Vietnam, and about 40 more B52s were ordered from the United States to the western Pacific. The U.S. Command reported that Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers flew 84 combat strikes in South Vietnam, more than eight times the daily average inside the country for the past four months during which the American fliers have been concentrating on the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos.

The South Vietnamese air force flew another 85 strikes. Meanwhile, the U. S. Command reported that two Americans were killed in combat last week three fewer than the week before.

It was the 8th straight week that fewer than 10 Americans had been killed in action.

A command communiqué said 31 Americans were wounded, an increase of nine from the previous week.

A total of 45,646 Americans have been killed and 302,602 wounded since the U.S. command began reporting casualty figures in 1961.

The carrier Constellation arrived back in the Tonkin Gulf at dawn, its port leave in Hong Kong cut short, and its planes joined those of the Coral Sea and the Hancock in the air operations. It is the first time three carriers have been operating off the Vietnamese coast at one time since November 1970.

Reports from San Diego indicated a fourth carrier, the Kitty Hawk, might be on her way to Vietnam soon with another 75 planes.

Administration sources in Washington said three squadrons of B52s had been ordered to the western Pacific from three bases in this country. Most will remain on Guam for the duration of the offensive threat.

The officials in Washington and Saigon said the U.S. air arm was being beefed up to protect the 133,000 American troops still in Vietnam. But other sources in Saigon said the buildup was designed just as much to bolster the South Vietnamese in hopes of averting embarrassing defeats.

Porter Threatens Peace Talk Boycott

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. negotiator William J. Porter threatened today to boycott next Thursday's Paris peace talks session because of an anti-American peace congress to be held this weekend in Versailles. U.S. Ambassador Arthur K. Watson earlier had protested the meeting to France.

Porter again demanded that the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegations open prompt talks to free American prisoners of war and said Hanoi's refusal to permit neutral inspection of the POW camps was "more than a little bit nauseating."

Earlier this week representatives of the Communist Pathet Laos from Laos, the Viet Cong, the Khmer Rouge Communist movement in Cambodia and North Vietnam arrived aboard a Soviet jetliner to attend the congress to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Watson protested to France two weeks ago that the Versailles conference was not in line with France's role as a neutral host. He was told the conference was authorized because France did not feel it would disrupt public order. It banned an anti-American march in downtown Paris but the Communists called another on the outskirts.

The communist delegations in statements to newsmen outside the meeting room accused the United States of building up its air power in Vietnam as another means of prolonging the war and took sharp issue with President Nixon's State of the World message.

Nguyen Minh Vy, the deputy Hanoi negotiator, said the President's report was a repetition of Nixon's "old slanderous and salacious allegations" and that only adoption of the Communist peace plan could bring an honorable end to the war.

Meanwhile, in Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu confirmed today a split between his government and the United States over the latest allied peace plan, attributing the differences to statements made by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

He said he had asked for official clarifications of Rogers' Feb. 3 statement that the United States remained "flexible" on details of a political settlement, and added: "If he did say it, it is a violation of Vietnamese sovereignty."

He said he believed Rogers "misunderstood" the allied agreement and added: "If Mr. Rogers did say it, I will discuss it with Mr. Nixon."

Official sources in Saigon said two days ago that Thieu had been enraged by Rogers' assertion that the United States was "flexible" on provisions of the proposal under which Thieu would resign and new elections would be held a month later, with all political factions, including the Communists taking part.

In a national television interview with a panel of five newsmen tonight, Thieu said he had agreed to that plan.

"Up until today, everybody knows that the proposal is a joint plan of the United States and South Vietnam in which my resignation is mentioned," he said.

City Vandalism Continues

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

A second wave of vandalism in the city during which pellet holes were shot through windows of at least 21 business establishments. It is suspected that high-powered air guns were used.

Last night's malicious acts came in the wake of a rash of window and/or windshield smashing on at least 13 motor vehicles in the city.

Wednesday nights vandalism also covered scattered sections of the city taking in the Central Broadway area, Albany Avenue, the Kingston Shopping Plaza and the uptown business sections of Wall and Fair Streets.

The latest outbreak of malicious acts was discovered by two officers on patrol through the business districts of the city.

Police department members are pressing an investigation of both costly incidents hoping to establish the identity of the vandals who have been lurking around the city the last two nights.

Some sections of the city that were involved in the window-smashing spree of vandals were again hit overnight by the pellet shooters.

Authorities theorize that blunt instruments — possibly rocks — were used to smash glass in motor vehicles Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

Thirteen holes were shot in windows at Arace Electronic Plaza.

Other places hit by the pellet gun wielders were, Arace Appliance, Fertel's meats, H. & R. Block offices, Salvation Army store, Ulster Lighting, Governor Clinton Market, Michael's Chevrolet, Colonial Diner, Kingston Linoleum all on Broadway.

Also, Kingston Luggage, Kingston Trust Company, Grand Union Stores at Kingston Plaza and Albany Avenue, Sears Automotive, Royal Tire Service, Albany Avenue Garage, Valeo's Hardware and Lynch Auto Parts, St. James Street. A building on Downs Street also was hit.

Village Investigation Continues

Fourth Ellenville Patrolman Under Suspension

ELLENVILLE A fourth Ellenville patrolman has been suspended from duty, but Police Chief William Trapnell declined to say if his suspension is connected with incidents that led to charges against three other members of the department.

Patrolman Anthony R. Yerkes, 24, turned over his badge and gun to Trapnell

Wednesday afternoon following a brief meeting in the chief's office. Yerkes, who is married, joined the Ellenville police force in 1968.

Already under suspension are Charles Freer, 25, of Napanoch, the 14-man department's only detective, and two uniformed patrolmen, Ronald K. Krom, 25, and Carl B. Mayer, 23, both of Ellenville. They were taken into custody Monday night at the Ellenville State Police station. Freer, charged with endangering the welfare of a minor, first pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before Village Justice Ronald Elias Monday night. He was not represented by counsel at the time. Trapnell said Tuesday that Freer had engaged an attorney and would change his guilty plea when he appears in court again next Tuesday. He also rescinded a verbal resignation from the police force and was immediately placed on suspension along with Krom and Mayer. Trapnell said.

Krom and Mayer both were charged with third degree rape, involving a female below legal age and carrying a maximum prison sentence of four years. Krom was also charged with second degree sale of a dangerous drug, punishable by up to 25 years in prison.

Both Krom and Mayer requested an adjournment to give them time to engage legal counsel when they were arraigned Monday night and are scheduled to appear before Elias Tuesday. Freer was to appear Tuesday for sentencing before Acting Village Justice Joseph Friedman after Elias disqualified himself from sentencing.

Asked why he had removed himself from Freer's case,

Elias said "Call it a business connection."

Freer is the president of the Ellenville unit of the Police Benevolent Association, which recently endorsed Elias in his bid for reelection to the village justice post, but Elias denied that it would have any effect on him and said he had not sought the PBA endorsement.

The series of incidents involving the three men arrested

Monday were said by Trapnell

to involve nude photographs taken of a 16-year-old girl who has not been identified. Trapnell said the girl came to police headquarters voluntarily and signed a statement that was the basis of the charges against the three men. He declined to say if the suspension of Yerkes was connected with the same incidents, which he said took place last summer and reportedly at the interrogation room in police headquarters.

Trapnell has had offers of manpower aid from both Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin and State Police and said there would not be any lack of necessary coverage in the village. Sergeant Norman Green was recalled from vacation Wednesday and Warren Hull, who resigned from the force last year after three years in uniform, has been rehired.

Another Raid on Book Store

KINGSTON Detectives of the Kingston Police Department raided the Adult Book Store at 702 Broadway Wednesday night and arrested 22-year-old Richard Locke, a sales clerk, on a charge of second degree obscenity.

It was the second time in four months that the Adult Book Store has been raided by police. A similar raid occurred Oct. 5, and resulted in the arrest of 49-year-old Charles A. Fenner who was later convicted by a City Court jury of second degree obscenity.

Shortly after 7 p. m. Wednesday, a police detective went to the Broadway book shop and reportedly purchased three magazines from the sales clerk. The detective then placed Locke under arrest and charged him with second degree obscenity.

The three allegedly obscene magazines seized were Discipline, Whipped and Tulip Review. Their retail price ranged from $5 to $7.50.

Police said that Locke possessed the three magazines with the intent to promote obscene material, and that he was aware of their contents and character. Police said the magazines purchased by the detective contained illustrations that were "shameful" and "morbid."

Prior to his arrest, Locke told The Freeman that all the acts portrayed in the magazines he sold were simulated, and that they could not, therefore be classified as obscene.

Following arraignment Wednesday night, Locke was released after posting $400 bail. He appeared for a preliminary hearing today before Special City Court Judge George A. Beck. Bail was continued and the case was adjourned until Monday for the purpose of obtaining counsel.

Kingston Police Chief Julius Glassman said today that a judicial review of the materials purchased was conducted and determined to be obscene by

City Court Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Police confiscated more than

2,000 books and magazines from the store Wednesday night, in addition to a number of "novelties."

Glassman said today that the police department has kept close watch on the establishment since it was first raided against alleged pornographers.

New Zoning Application Filed in Marbletown

STONE RIDGE

An application for a zoning change to permit development of a "modern industrial center"

on a 62-acre parcel of land in High Falls has been referred to the Town of Marbletown

Planning Board for further study.

The zoning change request was submitted to the Town

Board at its meeting Wednesday night, according to Supervisor Kenneth Smith.

The request came from the

Rondout Manufacturing Corp. of Kerhonkson, which recently purchased 62 acres of land in

High Falls near the Lucas Avenue

Turnpike. The firm, which manufactures light metal components, reportedly wants to transfer its operations to the Town of Marbletown.

In a letter to the Town Board,

the firm said it currently employs 18 persons, but that it intends to employ 50 workers from the area once its new plant is put into operation.

The firm said it will erect a modern industrial plant if approval is obtained.

The matter was referred to the Planning Board for further study. A public hearing must be held on the variance request before final approval can be given.

In other matters, Smith announced that the town has received approval from the State

Education Department to conduct an educational and recreational program for its 823

senior citizens. The state has agreed to reimburse 50 per cent of the town's expenditures for the program, up to $400.

The program is being developed and run by the Marble-town Senior Citizens Club.

Councilman Alfred Terwill-iger, chairman of the town's landfill committee, reported that many of the problems at the landfill have been rectified.

Smith noted that maintenance at the site in recent months has been "very poor" due to "manpower problems."

Councilman Edwin Shumate

reported that the Zoning Review

Board is continuing its study of ways to amend, change or improve the town's zoning ordinances.

Justice Robert S. Diamond,

chairman of the highway committee, commended the work of the highway department this year. Several residents at the meeting, however, requested that sanding operations in the

Vly-Atwood area and on Mohonk Road be increased.

Task Force on Higher Education To Present Available Options

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Although directed to do so, the governmental task force on financing higher education will not recommend a specific plan for legislative action, it has been learned.

Instead, the task force — named the Hurd Panel after chairman T. Norman Hurd, director of state operations in Gov. Rockefeller's administration — will present a laundry list of the options that are available, sources told The Associated Press.

Some of the options are contradictory; all are given equal weight. On State University tuition, for example, the preliminary draft of the panel's final report includes these options:

—Two different tuition levels — one for freshmen and sophomores and another for juniors and seniors.

—An increase in tuition to a level such as $600 or $700 for freshmen and sophomores and $850 or $1,000 for juniors and seniors.

—A substantial increase in tuition. The report notes that some have suggested a SUNY tuition of $1,500 a year or more. "The failure of the panel to choose among the options was laid to the resistance of a few panel members, generally led by Assemblyman Milton Jonas of North Merrick and Willis Stephens of Brewster, sources said.

These panel members simply would not yield to administration pressures seeking panel recommendations of a boost in State University tuition, a state takeover of the City University of New York, the imposition of tuition at the City University, and a greatly increased program of scholar incentive aid.

The Rockefeller administration's viewpoint was pressed by Hurd. The intention was to devise a plan to alleviate fiscal pressures on private colleges by helping more students to attend them.

At the same time, the administration wanted a plan that would ease the strain on the physical facilities of the State University. The State University is running out of space while private colleges have vacancies.

Disparities in tuition were blamed in part for the dilemmas in private colleges. The private college tuition at private colleges in the state now averages $2,100 a year, roughly four times the tuition at the State University.

The panel was to adopt a final report at a meeting today in New York City, but few significant changes were expected in the preliminary draft. The draft included these options for the City University:

—A continuation of the free-tuition policy.

—The imposition of tuition.

—The adoption of SUNY tuition levels.

—The retention of CUNY as a separate institution.

—The incorporation of the City University into the State University system.

One of the few new items in the preliminary draft was the option of a State University takeover of the New York University campus in the Bronx as a nucleus of an upper division — junior and senior — and graduate center for engineering and technological studies.

The cost was estimated at $50 million, to be generated by tuition increases within the State University.

The option was designed to permit the transfer of engineering programs from private colleges in the New York City area that wish to cooperate. Engineering programs and students also would be transferred from State University units at Buffalo and Stony Brook.

This idea also was opposed by a few panel members. They questioned whether upstate colleges, or the private students should bear the cost of buying college facilities in New York City.

The preliminary report includes these options for private colleges:

—A continuation of current aid programs unchanged.

—A phase-out of the Bundy program of state aid to private colleges while replacing it with a more effective program to be developed.

—A reduction in Bundy aid but an increase in scholarship payments to students at private colleges, or the payment of flat amounts related to the costs of each freshman and sophomore, or the payment of flat amounts for each additional freshman and sophomore enrolled.

—An increase in Bundy aid.

The panel was formed last year with directions from Rockefeller and the legislature's leaders to draft specific recommendations in time for consideration during the 1972 legislative session.

NEW LIBRARY OFFICERS — Miss Grace Elliott of New Paltz (L) and Mrs. Harry Gair of Putnam Valley, recently elected trustees of the Mid-Hudson Libraries System, are welcomed by Altman W. Lampe, first vice president (second from left) and Leon Karpel director (R). Also named were Martin J. Rubin of Ulster County, re-elected president, Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck of Ulster County, second vice president, Kurt Clechenko of Putnam County, secretary, and Mrs. Elijah Tompkins of Putnam County, treasurer. Frank Michaelson of Greene County was named a director.

Legitimate Businesses For Most Racketeers... IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 85 per cent of the nation's racketeers are engaged in legitimate business activities, with restaurants, bars and taverns heading the list, the Internal Revenue Service says.

In its 1971 annual report, the IRS said today it has information that about 2,000 persons are considered major racketeers in the United States.

Officials provided few details, but said there are 217 restaurants, bars and taverns in which racketeers are engaged. This figure includes both major and minor racketeers, the IRS said, and "there could be two or more racketeers in one restaurant." The report did not define "major" and "minor" racketeers.

The IRS listed 186 businesses in the real estate and insurance field in which racketeers are engaged. Other major fields and the number of businesses involved:

Legalized gambling, including casinos and race tracks, 117; finance, including banking and stocks, 86; the professions, including lawyers, accounts and doctors, 82;

Entertainment and recrea-

United States Consider Recognition of Bangladesh

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is weighing diplomatic recognition of Bangladesh as part of a broad review of U.S. policy toward the developing structure of South Asia.

What postures will India and Pakistan adopt toward the new state and vice versa? How will India and Pakistan relate to their neighbors and to Peking and Moscow? These are among questions to which U.S. officials say they still find no clear answers.

Tied into this review, too, is the extent to which the United States should revive its massive economic-development aid to the subcontinent—assistance suspended since last year's Indian-Pakistani conflict.

President Nixon does not intend to announce a decision until after his China trip.

So far some 30 countries have moved to set up formal diplomatic ties with the former east wing of Pakistan which broke away in December's two-week war. Among them are Britain and the Soviet Union, but not mainland China.

A prime item in Nixon's view is whether India will abandon its past neutral stance and adopt a militant posture in South Asia, perhaps hooked in with Moscow.

The President said in his State of the World report Wednesday that the United States has "a continuing interest in India's independence and nonalignment" and also in its policy "toward its neighbors on the subcontinent." Similarly, the United States would prefer that Bangladesh, a country of 70 million, not be tied into a possibly hostile power bloc.

Current reports give U.S. officials some assurance on this score. They indicate Bangladesh's Sheikh Mujibur Rahman is displaying some independence from New Delhi, and that he pressed for the Indian agreement to pull out troops.

These officials say the decision on recognizing Bangladesh is a technical item which will fall into place easily once Nixon charts the larger U.S. policy course.

The scale of U.S. aid to the subcontinent, however, is unlikely to reach earlier heights, should Nixon signal a go-ahead. The aftermath of U.S.-Indian bitterness over the war lingers, and the administration and Congress have been shrinking foreign aid generally.

From World War II until last December, India got more U.S. economic help than any other nation—some $10 billion. Pakistan received nearly $4 billion, much of it in the Eastern province.

Congressman Will Not Sign

Fish Scores Anti-Busing Amendment Petition

WASHINGTON, D. C. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-28th), said Monday that he will not sign a petition that could force a House vote on a controversial anti-busing constitutional amendment.

A "discharge petition" has been circulating among members of the House for the past several weeks. If the required number of signatures are obtained, the House Judiciary Committee would be relieved of its responsibilities regarding the busing of school children to obtain racial balance.

At present, the Judiciary Committee is studying a proposed constitutional amendment submitted by Rep. Norman Lent (R-N.Y.), that would outlaw busing to achieve racial balance in public schools in the United States. Its chairman, Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), has refused to sign the bill out of committee.

Fish is a member of the House Judiciary Committee, and neither he nor any of its other 32 members have signed the petition.

"I'm not about to sign a petition that is aimed at discharging the committee on which I serve," Fish told The Freeman. "It would be inappropriate."

Fish emphasized that his committee is not ignoring the busing problem. "Our chairman (Celler) has already stated that the committee will hold hearings on the matter. I think four separate hearings have already been scheduled."

"I'm certainly no friend of busing," Fish continued, "but I prefer a full deliberation of the matter in committee." Fish termed busing "too serious a matter" to be voted on hastily.

"The passage of a constitutional amendment," he added, "must carefully pursued and a great deal of care taken."

Although Fish has consistently voted against federal funding of busing, he said Monday that he will await the conclusion of committee hearings before taking a final stand on the matter. "I still don't know what we're going to come up with at the hearings," he said.

According to the Associated Press, the petition has been signed by 139 Congressmen representing 33 states, including House Minority Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan. It reportedly needs another 79 signatures to relieve the committee of its duties and bring the matter to the House floor.

"The petition has certainly stirred up a little action," said Fish, "and that may be a good thing, but I hope it doesn't succeed." Fish added that the movement now appears to have "leveled off."

John Barry, Fish's administrative assistant in Washington, said that the Congressman has not received any reaction from his constituents on the busing plan. "Busing is not a reality in our district," said Barry, "but it is very important in the south, and that's where most of the opposition is coming from."

Additional Education Bill Will Now Be Introduced

KINGSTON Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr. (R-28) is introducing a bill to provide additional education for unemployed or underemployed veterans over age 50 even though they may have used up their GI Bill education benefits years ago.

"The goal of this legislation," Fish said, "is to help the older veteran who loses his job or is forced to take a substantially lower position because changing conditions have made his skills and experience obsolete.

"All qualified veterans," the lawmaker continued, "would be allowed to take refresher or retraining courses to bring them up to date on essential technical changes affecting their regular vocations. Under no circumstances would this reeducation period exceed nine months of full time study and training."

Fish explained that the bill, which has provisions for study on a half-time basis, was designed to permit a veteran to update and build on the base of his previous know-how and experience.

"Often a refresher course is all that the veteran will need to help him find a new position in his present field or line of work," Fish said. "When these re-employment opportunities are severely limited for the older veteran, even with refresher courses, then retraining courses would make it possible for him, building on his present skills, to switch to another field. I also believe this retraining could be invaluable in helping him find work at a level commensurate with his accumulated years of experience."

Fish said his new bill is being referred to the Committee on Veterans Affairs for consideration.

with money from US"

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 10, 1972

WASHINGTON — In strict privacy, Hubert Humphrey has confided who would be occupying the seats of power today if he had been elected President.

—Arthur Goldberg, the former United Nations Ambassador, would be Chief Justice.

—A black woman, ex-Howard University dean Pat Harris, and an eminent constitutionalist, Harvard professor Paul Freund, would be serving on the Supreme Court.

—Either Clark Clifford or

George Ball, who opposed the Vietnam military escalations in the Johnson Administration, would be Secretary of State.

—And Cy Vance, the former Deputy Secretary of Defense.

Humphrey made these disclosures last week in a private letter castigating the left-wing Democrats who deserted him in 1968. He complained bitterly that the same liberals, who sat out the 1968 election, are now belly-aching the loudest over President Nixon's appointments.

These people, he wrote, were "in a large measure responsible for Nixon's election." Yet they "are not today embarrassed and silent at their role in helping to place on the Supreme Court men like (William) Rehnquist and as Attorney General, John Mitchell.

"Instead, they criticize these appointments without acknowledging their own culpability at having made them possible. . . . If it were not for them, Ed Muskie would today be Vice President of the United States rather than Ted Agnew; Arthur Goldberg would probably be sitting as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and Pat Harris and Paul Freund would be on the Court with him.

"More likely, Clark Clifford or George Ball would be serving as Secretary of State, and Cy Vance would be Secretary of Defense. . . .

"Those on the right nearly destroyed the Republican Party during the days of Joe McCarthy; and I will not permit those on the left to do any further damage to the Democratic Party."

TV Distortion

Indignant researchers, who worked on the Surgeon General's TV report, are privately denouncing it as a put-up job.

The report claims that TV violence might whet the passions of children with aggressive tendencies but should not influence normal children.

This does not agree, say the researchers, with their findings. One researcher, Dr. Monroe Lefkowitz, has written a scathing letter, charging that the Surgeon General's report "ignores, dilutes and distorts the research findings" and, therefore is "potentially damaging to children and society."

The TV report was produced by an advisory committee, which was tainted from the start. We revealed on May 11, 1970, that the Health, Education and Welfare Department had given the TV industry veto power over the committee's membership.

The industry promptly vetoed seven distinguished scientists who had been critical of TV violence. In their place, five researchers with close industry ties, two of them network employees, were named to the 12-man committee.

As we had warned, they took a rather cavalier attitude toward TV murder and mayhem. But there has now been a scientific backlash inside the advisory committee.

Dr. Lefkowitz, the principal research scientist for New York State's Mental Hygiene Department, fired off private letters to Senate Communications Chairman John Pastore, D-R.I., and Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., a critic of TV violence.

The Surgeon General's conclusions, Lefkowitz said, "are hedged by erroneous statements, are over-qualified and are potentially damaging to children and society."

Children and TV

Contrary to the official findings, he said, the true figures show that children of eight who prefer violent TV shows are "significantly more aggressive" at 18.

The great danger, he added, is that mothers who read the Surgeon General's report are "understandably ready to believe that their children are not predisposed to be aggressive (and) now have 'scientific' license to permit their children a violent television diet."

After receiving Lefkowitz' letter, Congressman Murphy contacted other researchers and huddled secretly with three of them last weekend in Islip, N.Y. They are Dr. Robert Liebert, Dr. John Neale and investigator Emily Davidson, all of New York State University.

They gave Murphy a 13-page dissent castigating the TV report as "inaccurate." Disputing the report, they charged:

"There is a statistically reliable and socially significant relationship between exposure to televised violence and aggressive behavior. . . . Large segments of American society are profoundly affected by aggressive or anti-social behavior which has been instigated by exposure to violent entertainment. . . . on TV."

They added emphatically that "many studies of normal American children from average American homes" show the relationship between aggressive behavior and TV bloodshed.

Meanwhile, four more scientists who worked on the Surgeon General's report are preparing another secret dissent taking issue with it.

Senator Pastore has scheduled hearings on the report in March. We have reported in the past that both the senator and his counsel, Nick Zapple, have accepted favors from broadcasters. It will be worthwhile watching whether they will now return the favors.

Freeman Editorials

Rethinking a Clause

The latest contractual offer, federally mediated and proffered by the New York Telephone Company, is due to be voted upon by mail ballot by Feb. 16. The strike by telephone workers has continued for the last seven months, and the hardships of this prolonged labor dispute upon the strikers, their families and Ma Bell have been made apparent through numerous stories printed in The Freeman in the course of these last months.

Whatever the financial settlement eventually reached we have no desire to comment upon, except that one hopes a fair settlement is reached. We are certain that management, union officials and the rank-and-file know better the value of the work performed than any outsider.

But we will comment on one aspect of Ma Bell's offer that does appear unfair. The alleged 'amnesty clause' gives the company the right to take disciplinary action against any union member CHARGED with a felony, misdemeanor, criminal violation or offense during the course of the strike. Sherwood Davis, counsel for Local 1120, has denounced this clause as unconstitutional, and rightfully so. Davis asks that the language be changed to read CHARGED AND CONVICTED of any of the above mentioned violations.

This modification certainly is more in keeping with the spirit and letter of the law. Being charged with a crime is not synonymous with guilt—only a conviction legally removes all doubt. Perhaps Ma Bell might consider rephrasing the disputed language to better conform to the American conception of justice.

Lo the Poor Redskin

It is difficult to believe that a $9-million suit has really been filed against the Cleveland Indians baseball team, alleging, among a whole list of things, that the team's symbol, dubbed "Chief Wahoo," degrades the Indian race.

(Incidentally, $9-million is "ump-teen" dollars in anybody's vocabulary, including that of the original Chief Wahoo, the comic strip character, who coined the word.)

But the suit is real enough, and it reads like something that might have been brought against a defendant at the Nuernberg trials.

"Wahoo," says the plaintiff, the Cleveland American Indian Center, is not an Indian word but "is a slander upon all Indian languages and subjects them (sic) to public ridicule. . . .

"No other nationality, group or race would be expected to tolerate such a caricature of themselves. Only the American Indian, whom this country has raped, robbed, ruined and murdered, can be so depicted as a big-toothed, pointed-head, grinning half-wit while we Indians are expected to endure such a racial slur."

Furthermore, the center claims, the symbol ridicules the political and social system of the Indian nations as well as promoting detribalization and denying the Indians their right to self-determination. It also mocks the heroism, courage, wisdom and statesmanship of many Indians.

Such a heavy burden for such a little guy to carry.

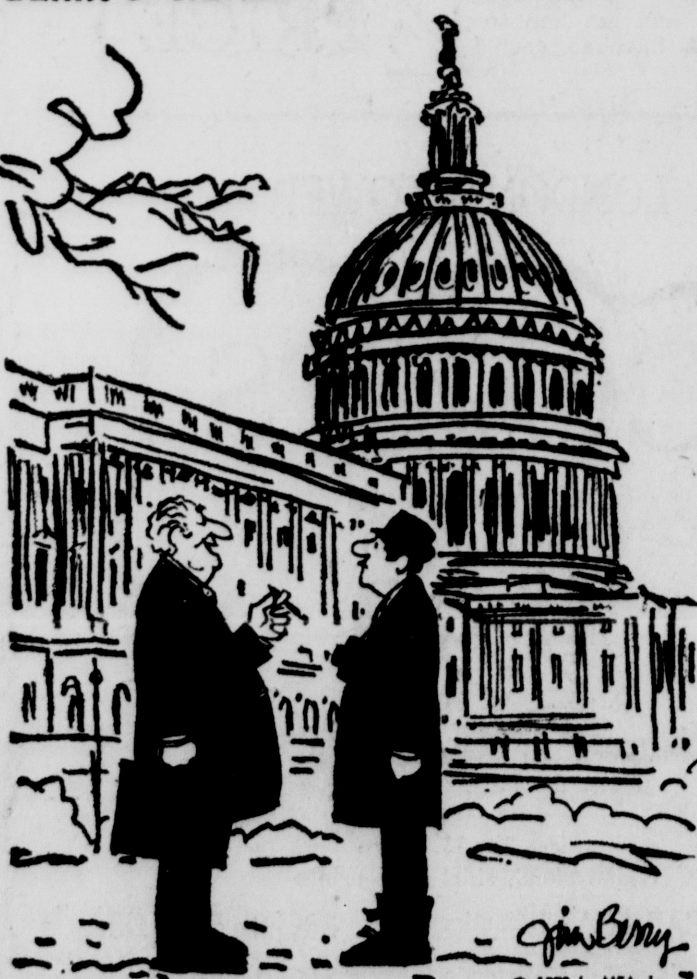

The "racism" behind Chief Wahoo who will be news to millions of people who have followed the baseball Indians over the years and who no more associate their symbol with real Indians than they believe that Englishmen are short, pot-bellied, run around in knee breeches and wear a Union Jack for a vest.

It's even possible that just the opposite is true—that Chief Wahoo inspires affection for real Indians.

Nevertheless, the suit is genuine and is part of a national campaign to change the stereotype of the American Indian. Similar actions are said to be under consideration against the Atlanta Braves, Washington Redskins and California Warriors.

It's true that real Indians were not literally redskinned, nor were they "Wahoos." But are their descendants suggesting that they weren't brave warriors?

BERRY'S WORLD

"It's quite simple, my good man—the reason we do not cut off aid to countries that seize U.S. property is because such an action might possibly provoke strained relations!"

MONTREAL — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, a strange thinker, has appointed as Finance Minister John N. Turner. Mr. Turner seized the moment to immediately boast that he "doesn't know much about Canada's floating dollar or the international currency situation." But that's Trudeau for you, who also made 10 other changes in his Cabinet recently. No wonder trouble is brewing in this wonderful neighboring country.

Here is a place where three distinct populations—French-Canadian, British, continental European—mingle, and this fact of the three cultural groups gives Canada individuality and helps set our neighbor apart from the all-pervasive civilization of the United States.

Canada has a population of only 21.3 million. Without many more people than New York State or California, she is the world's seventh nation

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is not pessimistic about the future in world affairs. Nor is he optimistic. He feels that if the United States plays its cards well, the chances of averting war are good.

Mr. Nixon expressed his views in an exclusive interview in the February issue of "Reader's Digest," in which he covered a variety of questions that are before him. His principal point is that the United States must be careful not to drift into a position of isolationism.

The President explains that his motive in approaching Peking is to establish contacts with the government of a nation of 750 million people and to "mitigate the dangers of an isolated China." He declares that China "will be a very significant economic power" and "will be a major nuclear superpower if it wants to be," thus creating a danger not only to neighbors but to the other parts of the world. He came to the conclusion that one of his most important duties was to see what could be done to develop better relations with the Chinese on the Mainland. He refers to the need to "avoid the possibility of a confrontation" in a war and also to explore the prospect of more communication and of more trade.

He believes that talking with the Red Chinese may serve to reduce the chances of conflict with the Peking regime "on the rimland of Asia."

Speaking of the Vietnam War, the President says that as long as there is no successful negotiation and as long as there are American prisoners of war in North Vietnam, the United States must keep "residual presence" in Indo-China and retain the power to inflict damage on the enemy by air. If there is action on the prisoner problem, American ground troops can be brought home, but Mr. Nixon emphasizes strongly that "as long as those POWs are there we are going to keep forces there."

In the strategic arms limitation talks, the President is convinced that progress is being made. He thinks that, while there are differences of philosophy between the United States and the Soviet Union, he both know that "if we are drawn into conflict, the possibility of mutual suicide is very great." He notes, for example, that if he gave the order to launch a nuclear attack against the Soviet Union, possibly 70 million Russians would be killed and so would 70 million Americans. Each side recognizes that the tragic result of nuclear warfare must be avoided. This is why there is an interest in arms limitation by the Soviet Union and the United States.

The President also discussed areas where "any conflict runs an extraordinary risk of involving the United States and the Soviet Union because it involves our vital interests and their vital interests." He points to the importance of an agreement on the status of Berlin as well as in the Middle East. He thinks the latter situation is far more dangerous than Vietnam now in developing friction between the United States and the Soviet Union, "but not as dangerous as Berlin."

These are some of the pressures of which Mr. Nixon is well aware as he undertakes negotiations that he hopes will lead to peace with respect to the Middle East and the possible reduction of troop strength in Europe.

Mr. Nixon is impressed by the economic progress made by other countries since World War II ended, and he mentions particularly Japan and West Germany. He believes that the United States could attain a better position in world trade and that this would be very helpful in many ways besides its monetary advantages.

On the whole, the President appears to be confident that negotiations can bring about a better understanding with the nations of the world and that expanded trade relations will tend to improve the contacts between the United States and other countries.

As for trade problems, President Nixon is not in favor of putting quotas on everything and retaining import surcharges indefinitely. He says that we should not turn inward and "let the rest of the world go by," and warns that "giving in to the forces of isolationism" would "be a fatal error." His idea is that the United States should welcome competition. He says that American workers have had the advantage of the best technology, but this is no longer the case, as other countries have introduced newer machinery and better facilities. In fact, Mr. Nixon considers it "a whole new game" and hopes that our economic weaknesses can be cured so that American products can be made at lower prices and sold in the markets of the world on a parity with those of other countries.

David Lawrence Says

Avoiding Isolationism

Henry Taylor Says

Canada and Premier Trudeau

in manufacturing and fifth in world trade. Quite a record they've built up—these virile, decent, attractive people.

Montreal is to immense Canada what Zurich is to small Switzerland. One out of every 10 Canadians lives in Montreal, as one out of 10 Swiss lives in Zurich. Montreal is the world's largest French-speaking city, except Paris.

As I wrote recently from San Francisco, cities that are ports have a pulse beat that inland cities never know, and in Montreal the pulse beat is registered by its river.

The mighty St. Lawrence has already flowed a thousand miles from the head of our lakes and has another thousand miles to roll before reaching the Atlantic. But the St. Lawrence Seaway, opened only 13 years ago, offers a deep channel from Duluth, Minn., to the sea and opens our upper United States to 80 per cent of the world's saltwater fleets. Its by-products are 21 ports in Canada.

This country never has accepted gifts from us in peace or war. Like Finland, Canada has always paid the United States for what it received, although the Canadians have never received proper recognition for this.

Further, Canada has provided immense amounts to other nations—including Britain—in mutual aid, and has been at its own expense a major partner of ours in both the American defense and the North Atlantic defense program until erratic Trudeau hove on the scene.

The nation was not born in revolution. By the Treaty of Paris (1763) the French gave Canada to England and relinquished Louisiana to the inert hands of a declining Spain. Then this vast area evolved into a constitutional federation in 1867 shortly after our Civil War.

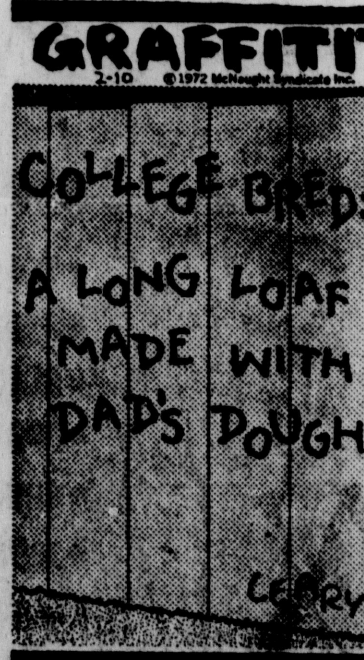

The British North American Act, in turn, recognized the special minority position of the French-Canadian region, the equivalent of one of our states but twice the size of Texas and larger than France, Spain and Germany combined. This and other acts granted the region specific irrevocable rights: its unique civil law; the equality of its French language in the Ottawa federal Parliament and the courts, and its jurisdiction over its own educational system.

In short, the French-Canadians are making it powerfully, bluntly clear to erratic Mr. Trudeau—born here in Montreal—that they see the states' rights federal structure as the only guarantee of their identity, laws, language, faith and customs no matter how on-again-off-again he may be or how busy he is buttering up Castro and the Kremlin men and playing on the latest fears of giant America that are inevitable in his adjoining country.

Mercurial Mr. Trudeau's opportunistic anti-Americanism is merely another sad case of a politician, his ambitious eyes as hot as the Sahara, swiping at the wrong target.

Eight out of every 10 Canadians live within 200 miles of the United States. We are her biggest and best export customer and she is ours. We do more business with Canada and Japan alone than with all the Common Market countries combined. Our 4,000-mile border with Canada has been unfortified for more than 100 years. Nothing comparable exists anywhere in the entire world. Nor have we a more solid feeling of friendship anywhere in the world than with the great Canadian people. Erratic Mr. Trudeau's leadership should be more a source of sorrow than of anger.

Environmental Report Is Issued

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
The Environmental Commission appointed by the Rhinebeck Town Board has come up with a list of suggestions after three meetings, including setting aside some wildlife areas and discouraging the use of billboards.

In the Commission's first report, given to the Town Board Wednesday night by Robert Grim, recommendations were: to erect signs on all town roads at all entry points into the town notifying travellers that they were entering the Town of Rhinebeck.

—To encourage individuals in the town to improve their own properties by first making sure that the several town properties have been visually improved.

—To discourage the use of billboards in the town through invoking old ordinances and applying the zoning law.

—To set aside an area bounded by Route 9G, Vlie Road and Ackert Hook Road and surrounded by private properties as a wildlife refuge. This area is a large swamp with many different types of plant and animal life. It is zoned land conservation.

—To establish some type of recycling at the town's landfill operation.

—To investigate setting up bicycle trails for public use.

In other business, Councilman Louis Asher reported that the town had recommended that it take over the administration of the joint town-village recreation program as a step in broadening its scope to include more teenagers and elderly.

He said the program is "not as extensive as it might be," and he felt it presently stressed the very young to too great an extent.

Justice Herman Tietjen said that voting for two town districts will be moved from the town to the village hall.

These would probably be the fourth and fifth districts, wholly within the bounds of the village. There has been some overcrowding in past years with four districts voting at the town hall and one in Rhinecliff.

The Town Board resolved to accept a new offer from the Dutchess County SPCA in place of the former contract. This will enable the dog warden to submit dogs to the SPCA, if space is available, for $10 each to be billed monthly. The town has been eradicating unwanted dogs through a Red Hook veterinarian.

Councilman Del Wolcott stated that greater care will be taken at the landfill site in the future to make sure it is operated effectively. He recently attended a seminar held by State Environmental Resources Commission on landfill sites.

Some problems in drainage at the Rhinebeck site will be dealt with by closing off an area near water sources and adding another layer of fill on hard ground.

Supervisor William Allen gave a report on a three-day session in New York City just completed by members of the Association of Towns. He and Councilman Asher attended.

Sympathy was officially extended to member of the family of the late Judge Clarence Traver, who died Feb. 5. He had served the Town of Rhinebeck 43 years as Town Justice.

There will be a public hearing on proposed zoning amendments at 8 p.m. March 1 at the Town Hall. The law will be one year old in March.

Marsha Laneto, Vlie Road, was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Zoning Board of Appeals left by Donald Rubsha. The term will expire March 10, 1973. And the town will advertise for bids for three new voting machines, to be opened at the March meeting.

Esopus Board Requests Corrections

Rondout Creek Bridge Termed Hazardous

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN
The Esopus Town Board has asked the New York State Department of Transportation to correct what it terms "hazardous" and "perilous" conditions that exist on the Rondout Creek Bridge.

At its regular monthly meeting Wednesday night, the Town Board authorized Supervisor George Freer to formally request that the Transportation Department install lights on the Port Ewen end of the bridge, and to repair several "gaping holes" in the sub-structure of the span.

Freer said that "frequent accidents" have occurred on the bridge due to insufficient lighting. He said that six-foot precast lights on the bridge abutments were destroyed by vandals "some time ago" and have never been replaced. He will ask the Transportation Department to install light poles and lamps to afford better lighting for both motorists and pedestrians. Freer also noted that the understructure of the span "is in perilous shape." He said, "Large chunks of debris have fallen off, leaving gaping holes in the bridge. I think they should be sealed with something other than plywood."

Freer said repairs to the Rondout Creek Bridge are now more important than ever because the proposed Kingston Arterial bridge is now apparently a "state budgetary statistic."

In other matters Wednesday night, the Town Board set three meeting dates for this month. On Monday, a public hearing will be held dealing with the formation and empowering of the Esopus Environmental Conservation Commission. The meeting starts at 8 p.m.

On Feb. 22 at 8 p.m. a public hearing will be held on several variances for the 162-unit Esopus Gardens apartment complex. The area is presently zoned single family residential. Town officials will meet in special session on Feb. 16 to discuss progress of the Waterside development at Aero Lake. Freer said that work at the site has been slowed by the winter weather and its petitions for the formation of a water district.

Freer had high praise Wednesday night for members of the water and highway departments after they worked "around the clock" Monday and Tuesday to repair four separate water main breaks in the township. Freer said the break in the water main along Main Street was "very extensive" and washed away much of the earth beneath the pipes. Customers were without service on Tuesday. Freer said the breaks were caused by recent severe temperature changes.

A recurring complaint was raised again Wednesday by a town resident who has asked the town to take action against a local industrial firm that is reportedly dumping sand and Army Corps of Engineers stone into the Rondout Creek, earlier without any response. Freer, who contacted the U.S.

said he will try again this week.

Lawyer Declares, Tosses Hat In

NANUET, N. Y. (UPI)—Yale Rapkin, a 41-year-old lawyer, announced his candidacy for Congress Wednesday night in a district he believes will include Rockland County and parts of Orange and Sullivan counties. Rapkin, who lost a bid for the GOP nod in the 25th District two years ago, said he believes the district will be the 27th—now represented by Rep. John G. Dow, D-Newburgh.

The state legislature, which approved legislative reapportionment in December, has yet to reveal the proposal for re-districting congressional boundaries.

Rapkin told newsmen he does not believe Rockland will be linked with Westchester County as it is under the current apportionment plan. In 1970, Rapkin lost the party's nomination to Rep. Peter A. Peyser of Irvington, who went on to win the seat formerly held by Rep. Richard L. Ottinger in the fall elections.

Rapkin, admittedly a conservative Republican, said the issues in the campaign would include busing and welfare reform. He said he expected William Vines, Republican supervisor in Clarkstown, would announce his candidacy for the same nomination.

Dance Week At New Paltz

NEW PALTZ
A week of dance spanning the art from classic ballet to the avant garde will be held at the State University College, at New Paltz beginning Feb. 13.

The Harkness Ballet, Merce Cunningham and Dance Company, and Walter Terry all will be appearing within a six-day period.

The Harkness Ballet, one of America's best-known classic ballet companies, will perform at the college's McKenna Theatre Sunday, Feb. 13 at 2 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m., and Friday, Feb. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

Merce Cunningham and Dance Company, a contemporary American dance company, will appear at the Elting Gymnasium Tuesday, Feb. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Walter Terry, the current dance critic for the Saturday Review, and a regular contributor to Dance Magazine, Horizon, Dance News, and Theatre Arts, will lecture Monday, Feb. 14, at the Lecture Center at 7:30 p.m.

Master Classes will be conducted by masters of the Harkness and Cunningham companies beginning at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 16, in Elting Gymnasium.

Admission for the Harkness and Cunningham performances is $2.50. Tickets for the Harkness performances may be obtained from the McKenna Theatre Box Office. Tickets for the Cunningham performance will be available at the door. The Walter Terry lecture is free and open to the public.

Katherine A. Bower Dies, Former Heart Director

BROADALBIN
Miss Katherine A. Bower, former executive director of the Mid Hudson Heart Association, died this morning in Broadalbin, near Amsterdam.

Miss Bower came to Kingston from the Nassau County Heart and TB Association in 1962 and joined the staff of the Ulster County TB Association as an associate director. In 1964, when the Ulster County Heart Association became disaffiliated from the County TB Association, Miss Bower became the executive director of the newly formed Mid-Hudson Heart Association.

She resigned her Kingston position last year to accept a post with the New Jersey Heart Association as state program director.

While in Kingston, Miss Bower was a member of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, St. James Methodist Church and the Ulster County Zonta Club. Funeral services will be held

Ellenville Burglaries Being Investigated

ELLENVILLE — Three burglaries and an act of malicious mischief were under investigation today by Police Sergeant Otis A. Brown and Patrolman Richard Hobart.

Police reported that the Glusker-Emkay Sales Corp. store at 91 Center Street was entered sometime early Wednesday by prying open a skylight on the top level of the building and dropping to the office. The safe was opened by tripping the inner lock and an undetermined amount of cash was taken.

Another burglary was reported at the General Sports-wear store at 23 Market Street, where police found a door on the south side had been pried open. The office was ransacked and contents of desks had been strewn on the floor. Police theorized the intruder apparently was looking for money. Nothing of value was reported missing.

The Ellenville Wholesale Grocery at 95 Center Street also was entered by prying a lock and forcing a rear door. The office was ransacked and an undetermined amount of money was taken, authorities reported. Police also noted that the Reformed Church on Canal Street was entered through an unlocked door earlier this week. Investigation disclosed that two pairs of flowered curtains and a wall clock were missing.

Russell Morgan of 10 Mill Street, complained to police that when he returned home from work on Monday morning, he discovered that someone had thrown a bottle of strawberry wine through a front window of his home.

Village police also reported the arrest of James H. Snow, 35, of Hopewell Junction, on a charge of harassment. He was accused of shoving and knocking to the floor of an establishment at 92 Center Street, a Woodridge man.

Queens DA Dismayed Over Release of Names

NEW YORK (AP) — Queens Dist. Atty. Thomas Mackell has expressed surprise and concern over the disclosure by police here of the names and records of nine persons wanted in connection with the fatal shooting of two policemen.

Mackell's sentiments stem from the fact that one of the men named as wanted in the shooting of Patrolmen Gregory Foster and Rocco Laurie is an absentee defendant in a murder trial scheduled to start in Queens next week.

Foster and Laurie were shot in the back on a lower East Side street last Jan. 27.

The Queens case involves the death of a Black Panther, Sam Napier, whose charred and tortured body was found in a building in Corona, Queens last April 17.

"I don't want to get into a war with police, but there has been a new approach to public relations in the department that I am somewhat surprised at. I am concerned about pre-trial publicity," Mackell said Wednesday.

One of the six Queens defendants, fugitive Andrew Jackson, 25, was identified by Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy Tuesday as a suspect, along with three other men, in the murder of the two patrolmen.

Murphy said the four and five others sought for questioning in the police killings were members of the Black Liberation Army, which claimed credit for the slayings in a letter obtained by police.

The commissioner said "this group and a handful of others have been responsible for killings and assaults on policemen, both black and white; holdups and assaults against ordinary citizens and businessmen, both black and white."

Patrolman Foster was black and Patrolman Laurie was white.

Details on the so-called Black Liberation Army are sketchy, but it is said to be a more militant offshoot of the Black Panthers.

Sanford Katz, an attorney for one of the defendants in the Queens case, said Wednesday that he was "appalled that the New York City Police Department would call such a press conference (naming the suspects) on the eve of a major trial in which Andrew Jackson is a defendant."

Driving Course Offered

NEW PALTZ — A four-session course in Defensive Driving will start 1:30 p.m. Feb. 14 at the Inter-County Bank, New Paltz.

Sponsored by the Ulster County Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, the course is open to all interested persons. Vincent Gallagher of Kerhonkson died at Veterans Administration Hospital this morning. Funeral arrangements will be announced by the H.B. Humiston Funeral Home, Kerhonkson.

Fannie Osterhoudt, 81, of Kerhonkson, widow of the late Harvey Osterhoudt, died at Ellenville Community Hospital Wednesday after a long illness. She was born Jan. 13, 1891, at Kerhonkson, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Soalus Schoonmaker. Mrs. Osterhoudt was a member of Federated Church of Kerhonkson. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Eunice Purcell of Kerhonkson, and a brother, Theron Schoonmaker of Fairfield, N. J. Two grandsons, Gleason Purcell, Kerhonkson, and Harry Purcell, Accord; and five great-grandchildren also survive. Funeral services will be held Friday, 11 a.m. at the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home, Kerhonkson. The Rev. Paul C. Hoyt, pastor of Federated Church of Kerhonkson, will officiate. Burial will be in Pine Bush Cemetery, Kerhonkson. Friends may call at the funeral home this evening 7 to 9.

Walter J. Schoonmaker, 68, of 9 Delaware Avenue, Rensselaer, died Wednesday at Albany Medical Center after a long illness. A native of Kingston, he had resided in Rensselaer for most of his life. Mr. Schoonmaker was a nationally known wildlife lecturer, painter and writer. He had worked for 35 years on the professional staff of State Museum at Albany before retirement in 1958. He was a zoologist and was a member of the Fort Crailo Artists Association, and was the historian for the Town of North Greenbush. Mr. Schoonmaker was a graduate of Cornell University, and had studied at Syracuse University, Art Students League of New York and Valencia University, Spain. He had also been an active participant in UNESCO and had been responsible for a weekly newspaper column in local newspapers and weekly radio programs on outdoor life. He is survived by his widow, Jeanette Schoonmaker, and a niece and a nephew. Private funeral services will be held from the W. J. Lyons Funeral Home, 1700 Washington Avenue, Rensselaer, at the convenience of the family. Burial will be in Blooming Grove Cemetery, North Greenbush.

Co-Worker
Informs Widow
Of Lottery Win

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Leo Scaduto, a New York City office worker who lived in Brooklyn, liked to take a couple of chances each week in the New Jersey lottery. Every week he gave $1 to Nancy Colacchio, a co-worker who lived in Washington Township, N.J. She bought him two tickets. Scaduto gave Miss Colacchio the money one week in July, then left on vacation for a visit with his son John in Fox Point, Wis. There he had a severe heart attack and two months ago he died. Last week, Miss Colacchio cleaned out her purse. She found the two tickets and decided to check the numbers against a list of outstanding winning tickets in a newspaper. One of the tickets was a first prize winner, worth $50,000. "I let out a scream," she said. Then she called Scaduto's widow. Two days later Mrs. Scaduto came to Trenton to pick up the $50,000 check. Lottery Director Ralph Batch said the tickets had no identifying name and Miss Colacchio easily could have claimed them for herself. "It's one of the finest examples of friendship and honesty I've ever seen," he said. "There was no question about who the tickets belong to," Miss Colacchio said. "They were Leo's."

Bogus $20 Bill Passed in City

KINGSTON — Detectives made known today that another counterfeit $20 bill turned up in the city on Wednesday.

The phony bill, police said, was discovered at the Banker's Trust in the Kingston Shopping Plaza. No further details were released by authorities.

The serial number of the bogus money — B98683080F — was unlike the counterfeit bills previously reported by area authorities.

21 Firemen Injured in Explosion

TEWKSBURY, Mass. (AP) — Twenty-one firemen have been injured in a fire and explosion that destroyed two trailer trucks carrying liquid natural gas.

Several of the firefighters were hurt when a truck full of gas exploded, sending a fireball hundreds of feet into the air at the Lowell Gas Co. plant Wednesday night.

The injured included 19 members of Tewksbury's 38-man fire department and two firemen from nearby Billerica.

The blast "lit up the sky so you could read a newspaper," said Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton of Andover, who directed the firefighting after Tewksbury Chief William Chandler was injured.

George Doulamis, an executive vice president of Lowell Gas, said the fire started after the loaded truck backed into and ruptured a pipe used to transfer liquid gas from the trucks to large storage tanks. He estimated total damage at $75,000.

Youth Charged With Burglary

HURLEY — Investigation by State Police and Woodstock Police Chief William E. Waterous of a recent service station burglary on Route 28, reportedly to the arrest Wednesday of 18-year-old John Metzger of R.D. 3, Box 363, Kingston.

Metzger was arraigned on a charge of burglary third degree before Town Justice C. H. DuMond, who committed the youth to the Ulster County jail in lieu of $1,000 pending grand jury action.

Trooper Patrick W. Sheehan and Waterous made the arrest. Meanwhile, Kingston detectives reported they had recovered a television set valued at $700 and turned it over to Hurley State Police BCI, who are investigating a recent burglary at a local summer home owned by Richard Ellis of Forrest Hill Park. Details of the burglary were not released.

City Firemen Douse Blaze

KINGSTON — Eight pieces of apparatus in charge of Deputy Chief Robert Maines were dispatched on a bell alarm at 2:44 p.m. Wednesday after fire was reported at Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue.

On arrival firemen found fire in the trunk of a 1965 sedan owned by James Hawkins of 400 East Washington Parkway, the Bronx, which was parked.

Firemen had to break a vent window on the left front door to enter the car. The fire was burning in rags and cans in the trunk. Pressurized water from Engine 1 was used to quell the blaze.

The probable cause was a spontaneous combustion, officials said.

The Other Day

Michael Leopold

A driver asked about the best way to get out of a sideslip on a curve. The natural impulse is to step on the brake, but don't do it. If you have entered a curve fast enough to cause your car to sideslip, applying the brake will cause a worse skid. Try to control sideslipping by giving your car more forward thrust very gently by pressing ever so lightly on the accelerator. The real preventive is extra caution, slowing down BEFORE entering a curve... and considerably less speed if the road is wet. Our aim is to SERVE YOU in every way here and in business.

Dutchess Policeman Sentenced

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (UPI)—A Poughkeepsie policeman convicted of soliciting $50 to fix a traffic ticket was sentenced Wednesday to one year in the Dutchess County jail.

County Judge Joseph Giudice, in sentencing John Burke, 30, said, "You have betrayed a public trust."

Burke had been a patrolman on the police force since 1965.

"Unless a meaningful sentence was imposed, there could have resulted a loss of confidence in our fine police department," said Dist. Atty. Albert Rosenblatt.

Rosendale May Again Try More Stringent Ordinance

ROSENDALE — Supervisor Gerard DeFelice said that the town may hold hearings to sample public opinion on the establishment of a more stringent dog ordinance, following several complaints and a lengthy discussion on the topic at Wednesday's Board meeting.

At present, said DeFelice, dogs are required to remain within sight and sound distance of their master. Several residents at Wednesday's meeting urged that dogs be kept tied to a leash while outdoors.

DeFelice also noted that the town is still looking for a dog warden, and he indicated that such a position may help to alleviate some of the town's problems.

The supervisor said that the town's dog problems are increased because residents refuse to sign complaints against their neighbors for violations of the present ordinance.

The Town Board also discussed the possibility of establishing a newspaper and glass recycling depot in the township. A committee chaired by Lee Comer was appointed to investigate the matter.

Daley said his local wanted to meet with company officials to discuss the matter. "We have attempted to arrange meetings," he said. "We want to get this thing resolved."

The Teamster Executive Board at a meeting in Miami on Jan. 21, ruled that Local 445 had jurisdiction and ordered Local 294 to stop interfering in the dispute.

UCCC Lists Variety Of Physical Activities

STONE RIDGE

In an attempt to help keep young and mature adults physically fit, Ulster County Community College this spring will offer credit-free courses in Dancercise, Golf, Karate, Folk Dancercise, Folk Dance and Yoga. Dancercise, one of Ulster's most popular courses, will be taught by Mrs. Iris Bresler. The objective is to improve the muscle tone and flexibility of the body while stimulating and relaxing the muscles. Participants will learn to exercise properly and beneficially.

Former golf pro and coach, Dr. William Odeneal, will instruct Beginning Golf. Students will learn the rules, etiquette, usage of equipment, and basic fundamentals of all phases of the game of golf so they will be knowledgeable when they play, talk or watch the game.

Karate — Self Defense — will offer students training in the basic forms of self defense through Judo, Aikido, and Kendo. The instructor, Al Girard, will cover basic stances, thrusting, kicking and blocking, formal basic and free exercises. Beginners Folk Dancercise, co-sponsored by the Kingston Fencers Club, will seek to encourage interest and participation in the world of foil fencing. It is open to both men and women, 16 years and older.

The Folk Dance courses will be presented by Ron Sanders, leader of the Novo International Folk Dancers.

The beginning course, Folk Dance I, is designed to acquaint the student with the dances, culture and music of European countries for enjoyment, enrichment and exercise. Folk Dance II will be structured similar to the beginner's course, but will require slightly more skill and experience for advanced dances.

Hatha Yoga will be under the direction of Tom McKee, a long time yoga practitioner and student of Oriental philosophies. It will cover breathing techniques designed to aid the nervous system, basic postures to permit spinal and muscular flexibility and rejuvenate body organs.

Two credit-free courses, The Christian Church in America, and A Study of Major Faiths, will also be offered by the college, beginning in March.

The Christian Church in America is being presented in conjunction with the Kingston Area Council of Churches to show how Christianity has given rise to the spirit of democracy in the expansion of American frontiers. Each session will include a discussion of the way in which the Christian faith was interpreted by great minds of the times.

The course will meet on six Thursday evenings beginning

March 16 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Room 653 of the Hardenbergh Building at the college's Stone Ridge campus.

A Study of Major Faiths is designed to introduce the salient truths of five major religious faiths: Judaism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, and Buddhism. It will meet for six Tuesday evenings beginning March 14 from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the same location.

Both courses will be taught by the Rev. Ebenezer G. Mane, acting chaplain to Kingston hospitals. A native of India, he has degrees from Bombay University and the New Brunswick Seminary.

Warrant Issued in Drug Case

KINGSTON — A bench warrant was issued in County Court Wednesday for Donald R. Moore who was indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury on charges of criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the third degree. It was issued by presiding County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Three indictments were also dismissed against Kenneth Everson, Bruce H. Williams and Jeffrey Noel Weiss. The dismissal was on the recommendation of assistant district attorney Al Hrdlicka who asked for the dismissal on the basis of unlawful search and seizure by police.

ISSUES DECREE—The Rev. John Gilmore, (R) pastor of Riverview Baptist Church, accepts decree for the Human Relations Commission, that was issued by County Legislature chairman Peter J. Savago designating Feb. 6 through 12 as Black History Week. Mr. Gilmore is administrator of the commission. In his decree, Savago said, "Let us pause for a moment as we reflect on past and present experiences and look hopefully to the future. Let us study and learn of the Black Man's contributions, then let us renew within ourselves the spirit to join together and all work for a prosperous and beautiful America." (Freeman photo by Kruh)

SCHOOL BUS SAFETY AWARDS — John R. Seidel (L) a representative of the Utica Mutual Insurance Company, presents school bus safety awards to Mrs. Jeanine Trishette and Arthur Gumaier, drivers of school buses in the Kingston Schools Consolidated System. On the right is James Tobin, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of transportation. The system's carrier, Arthur Mulligan Inc., was cited with a National Safety Council Award. Mulligan School Drivers Cited

KINGSTON — Thirty-five safe driver awards were presented recently to employees of Arthur F. Mulligan Inc., school contractor operator for the City of Kingston school system and Rondout Valley.

The awards, given during a dinner held at the Holiday Inn, included 20 women and 11 to male drivers who received one-year pins and certificates for driving their first year without a chargeable accident.

Citations, determined and supervised by the National Safety Council, were given through the cooperation of Utica Mutual Insurance Co. John Seidel, safety engineer for Utica Mutual, made the presentations. Others on hand included James E. Tobin, assistant supervising principal of the Kingston Consolidated School System; Mrs. Audrey Carpino, transportation supervisor and Andrew Aurigemma, assistant transportation supervisor. Edward V. DeGroff of Flisser-DeGroff Agency, Utica Mutual, also attended.

Tobin, in addressing the assemblage, commended the safe driver recipients on behalf of the school district, pointing out that because of their good records, they were somewhat responsible for the city school system's award for the past two years on "Safe Operation" in the area of transportation.

Tobin also pointed out that 13,000 students were enrolled in the entire system last year and that 7,865, or 60 per cent, were bussed to school over 141 routes.

Those present, he said, were responsible for 39 of these routes or 36 per cent, traveling some 1,400 "safe" miles per day and 280,000 miles per year.

Mulligan also added his commendations to his drivers.

Receiving the awards were: James Barrett, Edith Cherny, Joan Creeden William Ferrano, Jeanine Frichette, Arthur Gumaer, Mary Miller, Frank Tobin, Harriet Mulligan, Karen Clearwater, Mary Lewis, Patricia Gallagher, Constance Holland, Veronica Simmons, Eugene Mulligan, Marietta Pastick, Margaret Purcell, Dorothy Smith, Louise Visconti, Gerhardt Peterson, Paul Ellerbrock, Lucille Wnuk, Barbara Schoonmaker, Eileen Sobers, John Walker, Robert Necke, Irene Cables, Kenneth Williams, Frances Rittle, Fitzgerald and DeForest Madeline Steeger, Fred War-Shaver, retired.

Marine Midland Adds Department

POUGHKEEPSIE — Peter Dudan, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer, Marine Midland Bank of Southeastern New York, N. A. recently announced the formation of a Municipal Department within the bank. The purpose of the department is to enhance the bank's relationship with municipalities and school districts and, at the same time, to make its expertise available to financial officers of municipalities and school districts.

Bernard C. Kline, vice president, will be in overall charge of the bank's new Municipal Department and the Business Development Department. He had previously been responsible for the Branch Development Department which carried out an extensive branch expansion program.

Under Kline's leadership the bank will have two field representatives serving the municipalities of Dutchess, Putnam, Westchester, Rockland, Orange, Sullivan and Ulster Counties. Eugene I. Forst, Vice President, will be in charge of the outside solicitation efforts of the Municipal Department. In addition, he will continue to solicit corporate business in the bank's service area. Terry W. Terwilliger, Assistant Cashier, will work closely with Forst in the development of new municipal business. He joins the Municipal Department after serving as manager of the bank's Fishkill Office.

Terwilliger served as a management trainee at Marine Midland Bank—New York, prior to joining Marine Midland—Southeastern in July, 1967. In 1969, he set up and managed the Custom Banking program, became a Platform Assistant in 1970 and was appointed manager of the bank's Fishkill Office in the fall of that year. He was made Assistant Cashier in February, 1971. Terwilliger, his wife and two children reside at Riverside Road, Highland.

Guest Speaker Is Scheduled for Dinner

ARCHA O. KNOWLTON

KINGSTON Archa O. Knowlton, director of media services for General Foods Corporate Marketing Services Department, will be the guest speaker at the annual United Way dinner meeting and election of officers, Feb. 23 at 7 p.m. at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Nominees for office for 1972 include Glenn Sutherland, president; Ronald Every, treasurer and Robert Brown, Herbert Derman, Francis Kugelman, Wilbur Peters, Anthony Triulzi, Richard Mehlenbacher, Bruce Davis, Marion Tongue, Charles Diamond and Sutherland and Every to the Board of Directors.

Triulzi, president of United Way, said that officials now expect final figures for the 1971 campaign to total $34,000, about $10,000 under the 1970 figure and about $6,000 less than two years ago.

Triulzi said he considers the drive a success in view of organizational problems last year. The past Executive Director, Richard Vendettoli, was hospitalized for several weeks during the campaign's planning period, and he resigned from the post shortly after leaving the hospital. John Warren, Kingston public relations consultant, replaced Vendettoli on a temporary basis, in a last moment attempt to help campaign chairman Stanley Petro Jr. save the campaign. A $468,000 goal had been set which the United Way board felt the agencies should have in order to maintain the services which Ulster County residents need, Triulzi said.

"There was a serious question as to whether the United Way goal should be set at what had been given in the past, or whether the goal should reflect the need and go out and try to raise it. We didn't raise it, but we certainly don't regret trying," Triulzi said.

United Way budget committee members have met with agencies to decide where reductions can be made, Triulzi said, and allocations will be announced at the meeting.

The public is invited to attend the annual meeting. Reservations for tables of eight as well as single reservations may be made at the United Way office provided by the Governor Clinton Hotel. The dinner will begin at 7:15, with a reception to be held from six to seven.

The guest speaker, Knowlton, is responsible for buying TV time, scheduling of commercials, coordinating magazine advertising, and controlling other media activities for General Foods. Knowlton is also chairman of the National Media Committee of the United Way and is responsible for the placement and scheduling of United Way advertising across the country. Computer systems aid him in his media work for General Foods, evaluating media, quality, and budget controls. He is known for developing a study of advertising effectiveness on TV versus Life, Look, and Reader's Digest. The study has become almost required reading among media experts in the advertising world.

Audience to Hear About Center

KINGSTON John F. Crews will tell the Channel 10 Cerebral Palsy audience about the work of the Children's Rehabilitation Center in this city.

The Center, located on Webster Street and serving physically handicapped children from Ulster and Greene Counties, is one of the CP affiliates that will benefit from the Telethon this weekend.

As spokesman for Ulster-Greene counties, Crews is scheduled to appear with Ulster County's Theme Child, Colleen Juhl, four, of Lake Katrine, about 12:45 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 13. The Telethon will be aired continuously from 11 p.m. Saturday on WTEN-TV. Local pledges may be telephoned to 338-6060, according to Mrs. Martin Oberkirch, Jr., Ulster County Telethon Chairman. A volunteer telephone crew will be on duty to accept telephone pledges at the Ulster County Savings Bank in Kingston.

A project manager at IBM, Crews is a member of the Board of Directors of the Children's Rehabilitation Center. He also serves as member and secretary of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Boys Club, is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Kingston, and has been active in United Way campaigns, and Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts, sustaining membership enrollment. A graduate of Wagner College, he served in the U.S. Marine Corps. He is married to the former Carol Gaise of Kingston and they have two children, John David, 6, and Christopher, 4.

Among the national talent already signed for the Telethon are James MacArthur, who stars as Danny Williams on the "Hawaii Five-O," Ted Knight, the zany news broadcaster on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show," and Eileen Fulton, star of the popular "As the World Turns."

Youth Participants To Attend Session

KINGSTON Ulster County Youth-In-Government participants will attend today's meeting of the County Legislature in Kingston in preparation for their own service day to be held in the County Legislature Chambers Thursday, Feb. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

The 33 students in three political parties, representing 12 Ulster County high and junior schools will meet in caucus after the 4 p.m. County Legislature session to choose a majority leader and two minority leaders.

They will also be the guests of the Legislature at dinner at the Gov. Clinton Hotel. Also attending will be the winning candidates for the positions of congressman, state senator, assemblyman, county judge, family court judge, surrogate judge, district attorney, sheriff, county clerk, county treasurer and coroner, all elective offices in the county.

Arrangements are being made for them to work for a day or weekend with their political counterparts.

Light Turnout Reported For Rhinebeck Election

RHINEBECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Lewis Priven was elected to a seat on the Rhinebeck Board of Education Wednesday night, as described by school officials as a "very light voter turnout."

Priven garnered 215 votes out of a total 372 cast. The only other candidate, Mrs. Charles Rider, picked up 152 votes. There were three write-ins, one void, and one blank ballot. The seat was left empty when Board member James Kelly announced that he was resigning for personal reasons.

Priven will begin his duties Feb. 14 at the next regularly scheduled Board meeting.

Holiday Closings Listed

KINGSTON — Most offices in the Ulster County office building and all offices at city hall will be closed Friday in observance of Lincoln's Birthday.

The offices that will be open at the county office building are sheriff's department, surrogate court, motor vehicle bureau, public authorities and utilities, subject to review by the Consumer Protection Board.

Peter J. Savago, county legislature chairman in making the announcement said that this is in accordance with County Law Section 206 which designates which offices must remain open. Hours for those offices will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Also closed Saturday, Feb. 12 and Monday, Feb. 21 for the holidays will be the Ulster County Chest Clinic.

New Paltz Must Move To Keep Federal Grant

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Town Board will have to move, and quickly, on the proposed Erman Park Pool if they hope to keep their federal grant for the project, according to a report delivered by Councilman George Mackey at the board's Wednesday night meeting.

A recent meeting with officials of the State Department of Parks and Recreation by town board members, other town officials, and the project's architects, disclosed that if the town wishes to finance the project with a bond issue, it must hold it no later than July, Mackey said.

The town has received a grant from the Department of the Interior to build the proposed swim facility on a 25-acre tract near the Duzine School. The federal grant was for $235,950, and if the town wants to use the money, it has to match it. A bond issue for $240,400, to match the grant and services for a little extra, was turned down by New Paltz voters meeting that this would be the first such project in the Hudson Valley.

The tract was acquired from developer Jack Erman under the town's subdivision regulations, which require a subdivision to set aside up to 10 per cent of his land or $100 per lot, to be used only for town planning board and Mid-recreational purposes.

Mackey said it was made clear to town officials that the federal money goes through the state, and the state parcels it out to municipalities. The state has roughly three years to spend the money, or it loses it. Mackey said the state had no intention of losing the funds, and would give them to some other town if New Paltz could not use them.

Attorney for the Town Wendell Harp said the town could finance their share of the funds by means of a note instead of a bond issue, and the note would not be subject to a referendum. Mackey and Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello said they contracting or buying school buses would prove better for whether to go ahead with the note-type financing until a decision is reached.

Other referendum. Further communication with the state is necessary to determine if the town board will seek a referendum. Further communication with the state is necessary to determine if the town board will seek a referendum, when it will be, and what the effects of the vote will be regarding financing.

The question of the road provided for in the contract between the town and Erman was raised. Erman, expanding upon a statement he made in the Jan. 7 issue of The Freeman, said recent acquisition of property and recent events made it unnecessary for a road to go through the park property or any portion of the park property, and he was going to ask the town to deal with the road by depositing a null and void.

Erman plans to develop a School. The federal grant was hampered on the tract from which for $235,950, and if the town wants to use the money, it has to match it. A bond issue for $240,400, to match the grant and services for a little extra, was turned down by New Paltz voters meeting that this would be the first such project in the Hudson Valley.

Moriello again requested the cooperation of New Paltz residents in the conduct of the origin and destination survey being prepared by planning board consultant James Spratt. Spratt is preparing questionnaires to be distributed throughout both the town and the village to determine the traffic movements in New Paltz. Moriello said this survey could show where new routes are needed to solve New Paltz' traffic problem.

The town had asked the state to conduct such a survey, the state didn't, and so the town was going to do it on their own, said Moriello.

The target date for the survey is Feb. 18, but it is not final, and the actual survey date will be announced shortly.

PSC to Scrutinize Telephone Plans

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The long-range improvement plans of the New York Telephone Co. will come under "close scrutiny" by the Public Service Commission.

The agency announced the investigation Wednesday night as part of its approval of a $160 million rate boost for the firm. Still, with the announcement, came criticism from several lawmakers who thought the commission was putting the proverbial after the cart, in granting the hike, and then examining the huge utility.

The agency noted that when it approved the 9 per cent rate hike, it said it would exercise "close scrutiny of the company's massive construction program as it may affect the company's revenue requirements."

With the time and date of hearings yet to be decided, the PSC said it would focus on whether planned expansions provided the most economical "basic telephone service" and whether the auxiliary services were adequately covered by future earnings.

Such an investigation would be an addition to the usual lengthy process for considering rate change requests, in which the PSC staff often acts as the consumer advocate before the five commissioners.

In granting $190 million and $160 million rate increases to the company in the past year, the PSC noted investment in new facilities had tripled from $399 million in 1967 to a projected $1.1 billion in 1972.

The commission's procedures were challenged by a Long Island assemblyman and two Western New York lawmakers.

In a floor speech, Assemblyman Arthur J. Kermer, D-Long Beach, said, "since we're taking the flack for these rate increases, maybe we should look into what magical hold the New York Telephone Company has over the PSC in this state."

Sen. Thomas F. McGowan, R-Buffalo, and Assemblyman

Chester R. Hardt, R-Williamsville, announced beforehand they had introduced a bill to make all rate increases for public authorities and utilities subject to review by the Consumer Protection Board.

"The board would be able to stop any increases if they were not justifiable and in the best interests of the state's consumers," the two said in a statement.

Such increased authority would require a substantial staff boost for the consumer board. It has a staff of 13, compared to more than 500 at the PSC.

AMERICAN HEART MONTH—Dutchess County Executive William Bartles today issued a proclamation urging all residents of Dutchess County to support the 1972 Heart Fund Campaign, naming February American Heart Month. Volunteers will be out Feb. 13 for contributions. With Bartles (R) are Mr. and Mrs. John Golden, Northern Region Chairmen, and Susan Roach, 1972 Heart Child.

Spring Semester Begins at DCC

POUGHKEEPSIE Classes have begun at the Dutchess Community College campus for nearly 4,000 day and evening students. Preliminary registration figures indicate a total of 1,800 fulltime day students and an additional 1,900 enrolled as parttime students through the college's continuing education program. Although the figures are tentative, college officials regard them as consistent with prior planning objectives and faculty assignments. With the spring semester of the academic year now officially underway, instruction will again be conducted on a 14-hour per day schedule. Available space in Bowne, Falcon, and Taconic classroom buildings continues to be fully scheduled for instruction in the college's 23 academic programs. Students will continue to commute via the college's special bus service to the temporary annex, on Creek Road. The college is also offering credit-free instruction in a variety of personal interest areas to more than 437 students. Additional credit-free offerings are scheduled to begin during the ensuing months and applications will continue to be accepted. Some experienced faculty members are being sent throughout the county for those who cannot attend classes at campus. Some are teaching at Hudson River State Hospital.

PAW Casting Call for 'Major Barbara'

One of Bernard Shaw's brightest, slyest, most provocative, outrageous and most timeless comedies, "Major Barbara", will be Performing Arts of Woodstock's next production.

Casting at the Woodstock Elementary School will begin on Monday, Feb. 14, and continue Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 16 and 17, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The play has a cast of nine men, and seven women. Rehearsals will begin the week of the 21st, with an opening in mid-April.

Steve Callahan, the director of "Major Barbara," is also interested in meeting backstage workers and technicians, at the time of the casting call.

Artist's Work On Display Now

Kay Bell is now exhibiting art work at Hudson Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association of Fair Street. The wife of Chiropractor Clifford J. Bell and mother of Charles and Jan Bell, Mrs. Bell maintains a private studio in her home on Holiday Lane and has been teaching art since 1961.

Mrs. Bell, an active member of Ulster County Art Association, served as a past president, vice president, treasurer, art director and presently is an assistant art director. She has participated in many exhibits in and around Kingston, receiving numerous awards.

The exhibit will continue for two weeks.

KHS Class Reunion Planned

The Kingston High School Class of 1942 reunion committee will hold its second meeting on Wednesday evening, Feb. 16, at the meeting room of the Shamrock Tavern, 482 Broadway at 8 p.m. it was announced by Peter Mancuso and Jason Goumas.

At the first meeting held last month the group began compiling an up-to-date directory of classmates prior to getting flyers ready to mail. These flyers will poll classmates on possible dates on which to hold the 30th reunion of the class. Those who attended the meeting were Goldie Markle Lanspery, Helen VanDemark Sutton, Barbara Wetherbee Storms, John Hill and Robert Simpkins in addition to Jason Goumas and Peter Mancuso. Those who have signified intentions of attending future meetings but due to illness or prior commitments could not attend the opening meeting are: Gloria MacLean, Doris Bouton Ennis, Dorothy Sanford, O'Brien, John Sanglyn, John Kowal, Jacob Chichelsky, Barbara Norton Mellert, Rose Amato Hogan, Elizabeth Boyce Bailey, Dorothy Kuehn Devereux and Edward Lukaszewski.

Any class member who wishes to attend and help the reunion committee is urged to attend. Chairmen for the affair and committees have yet to be chosen.

Anniversaries Are Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Diers

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Diers of 213 Abell Street, Kingston, celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary Wednesday, Feb. 9 at a family open house.

Married Feb. 9, 1927 at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. William Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Diers are the parents of three children: Mrs. Harrie Christian of Elmendorf Heights; Ronald and Charles, Kingston. They also have 12 grandchildren.

Mrs. Diers is the former Harriet Madden. Mr. Diers is retired from The Daily Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hutton of Hurley were guests of honor Sunday, Jan. 30 at an open house given in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary. The gala occasion was hosted by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hutton of West Hurley, and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Conners of Poughkeepsie. About 30 guests attended.

Married in Kingston on Jan. 31, 1932, the couple has five grandchildren. Mrs. Hutton is the former Dorothy Storms.

Mr. Hutton is retired from Hercules Powder Company.

Don't Lie . . . Even to See Grandchildren

DEAR ABBY: I am so heartbroken and confused I don't know where to turn.

My son and his wife divorced two years ago, and my former daughter-in-law took my two small grandchildren to a distant state. (I must admit, my son wasn't a very good husband or father.)

My former wife recently remarried, and her new husband is adopting the babies.

I wrote and asked her if I could come out and visit for a few days, explaining that I would be no trouble as I would stay in a nearby motel. I just wanted to see my grandchildren. I miss them so.

To my amazement, she said I could come, on the condition that I do not tell the children

Dear Abby
BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

that her present husband is NOT their father. She says the children think he is, and that's the way she wants it. Abby, what am I to do? I can't lie to them about who their father is, and who I am. Yet I want to see my grandchildren. Can you help me?

DEAR GRANNY: Try to persuade your former daughter-in-law to be honest with the children for their sakes. Tell her it's not likely that she can deceive them indefinitely, and when they learn the truth, it could be traumatic. Don't agree to lie. Even to see your grandchildren.

DEAR ABBY: Since others use your column to air their pet gripes, may I? It's repairmen who set up appointments to repair your television, refrigerator or whatever, and they don't call to say they can't make it. They just don't show up.

I left work early last Monday to be home at 3 p.m. when the TV repairman said he'd be there. I waited until 7 p.m. and he never showed up! I called him the next day and made another appointment with him. Again I got off work early, and again he didn't show. (Always an excuse. Car trouble, got tied up, had to go to the dentist, etc.) He had my number at work and could have called me.

Abby, I paid someone to cover me at work so I could leave early for these appointments. My friends tell me they've had the same lousy experiences with repairmen. What's the matter with people nowadays? Their word isn't worth a thing. DISGUSTED IN SHERMAN OAKS

DEAR DISGUSTED: Sorry that you (and your friends) have had such rotten luck with service repairmen. There must be some who have integrity, or businesses that sell service wouldn't survive very long.

DEAR ABBY: For years I've enjoyed your column, and many times have felt the urge

Only Her Jeweler Knows

Because she is wearing a jeweler's loop doesn't mean she can assess a diamond. Only her jeweler with his scientific knowledge of gems can actually determine the gradations in color - the existence or non-existence of various types of inclusions - the cut and polish of the gem. It takes a Diamond Expert to assess its true worth.

Here our Experts will tell you all about the diamonds we sell: their weight, color, cutting and clarity. We'll show you different shapes and explain what faceting does. We'll let you see how certain settings, too, affect a diamond's loveliness.

We shall be most happy to show you - honestly - how one diamond differs from another. It will safeguard you against the common mistake of judging by size or price. Only your jeweler knows.

DELICIOUS NEW WAY to fix chicken thighs includes tomato sauce and fresh zucchini in the savory ingredients.

Plump, Meaty Chicken Thighs Are an Excellent Value Now

As you shop your supermarket for food to suit your needs of right now, consider chicken thighs as one of the best values at your command. They are meaty and juicy, and come in small convenient portions so that they cook quickly.

The National Broiler Council has developed two special recipes for chicken thighs that are simple to prepare but delicious and unusual in their flavor. Don't forget that chicken thighs bring high quality complete protein at very modest price, an important consideration, and they are richer in vitamin "A", riboflavin, and iron than white meat.

For Chicken in Tomato Cream, the plump thighs are coated with flour, cooked till golden brown in a skillet with a touch of onion, then simmered in tomato sauce, conveniently canned. Slices of fresh zucchini complete the blend of flavor. At the last moment, sour cream is stirred into the sauce. This is good to serve with rice to make a meal-in-one-dish. Only a salad is needed to complete the easy-to-make meal.

Another excellent way to serve chicken thighs is in a Chicken Curry Bake with unusual seasonings. Honey, mustard, lemon juice, onion and curry are mixed together and poured over the thighs as a basting sauce. Slivered almonds are added for crunch and extra flavor. This is such an interesting dish, especially considering how little work it is and how little time is needed to prepare it.

Try chicken thighs fixed these fascinating ways and you'll always look for this good meat at your market to include in well-planned meals.

Chicken In Tomato Cream

Eight broiler-fryer chicken thighs
One quarter cup flour
Two tablespoons salad oil
One large onion, thinly sliced
One can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
One can 8 and one-quarter ounces tomatoes
One-half teaspoon dried leaf basil
One teaspoon salt
One medium zucchini, cut into one-eighth-inch slices
One-quarter cup sour cream
Coat chicken thighs with flour. Heat oil in large skillet; add onion and thighs; cook until thighs are golden brown, turning once. Add tomato sauce, tomatoes with liquid, basil, salt and zucchini. Cover and cook over medium heat 40 minutes or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken from skillet to heated plate. Stir sour cream into sauce; pour over chicken.

YIELD: Four servings.

Chicken Curry

Eight broiler-fryer chicken thighs
One-half cup honey
One-half cup prepared mustard
One tablespoon lemon juice
One-half teaspoon finely chopped onion
One-half teaspoon curry powder
One-half cup slivered almonds
Arrange chicken thighs skin side up in shallow baking pan. Mix honey, mustard, lemon juice, onion and curry; pour over thighs. Cover pan with foil. Bake in 400 degree F. oven for 30 minutes. Uncover; baste thighs with sauce and almonds; bake uncovered 10 minutes longer.
YIELD: Four servings.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

You sure can save lots of energy by combining salt and pepper in a shaker.

This is used for nearly everything we cook at home by adjusting the amounts we desire. For instance, if you like a lot of pepper, make it half and half. If you like just a little bit of pepper, add only about a tablespoon to a big salt shaker. (This is going to save seasoning time.)

Any time you want to season a pork chop, salt and pepper your gravy, your vegetables, etc., try it and see.

Also, did you ever forget which side was salted? That little speck of pepper will prove you have already done the job!

"FORGETFUL"

Very clever! Can't begin to tell you how many chops we have eaten salted twice!

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:

In winter, when the house must stay closed and house atosis takes over, I like to put some whole cloves in a tea ball and hang it in my floor lamp.

To make one, completely cover the outer surface of a fresh orange with whole cloves. (Push the cloves in as far as they will go.) Then tie a string around it and knot the string at the top. Criss-cross another string around the orange and knot it at the top also. This gives you a string to hang the ball with when finished.

The heat from the lamp causes the cloves (and the orange) to give the room a pleasant fragrance that will last indefinitely.

When you no longer need it for a room freshener, just hang it in your clothes closet to get rid of any stale smell.

Ann Henning Survives Foul for Gold Medal

HEADING FOR VICTORY — Anne Henning of Northbrook, Ill. (L) leads Canada's Sylvia Burke (R) around the track on her way to winning a Gold Medal in the ladies 500 meter speed skating event Thursday at Sapporo, Japan. The judges later ruled that Miss Henning had been "impeded" by the Canadian when Miss Burke fell. Miss Henning was later offered a second run. (UPI)

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — "I was impressed by her attractiveness and her fine skill in skating. I would like to emulate her from now on," said Vera Krasnova.

"She is a great champion although she is still so young," added Ludmila Titova.

The object of the Russian girls' praise was Anne Henning, who broke the Olympic 500-meter speed skating title not once but twice Thursday, giving the United States its second 11th Winter Olympic Games' gold medal in two days, compliments of Northbrook, Ill.

The 16-year-old whiz, who will be battling with teammate Dianne Holum for the gold in Friday's 1,000-meter race, whizzed around glittering Makomanai Stadium in 43.75 seconds, fast enough to win despite being fouled by Canada's Sylvia Burke.

And because of that foul—interference on Miss Burke's part as the two skaters switched lanes—Miss Henning was given a second run and another shot at her own world mark of 42.75. She didn't make it this time either, although she did manage to shave almost half a second off her first time, finishing in 43.33. Miss Krasnova won the silver medal with a 44.0 clocking and Miss Titova took the bronze in 44.45.

Henning's triumph, which demolished the Olympic mark of 45 seconds, came just 24 hours after Miss Holum, another Northbrook skating star, won the Games' first gold for the United States in the 1,500 meters.

In Thursday's other medal competition, Norwegian farmer Paal Tyldum won the tough 50-kilometer (31-mile) cross-country ski race in 2:43.14.75 and Gustavo Thoeni of Italy captured the men's giant slalom with a two-run time of 3:9.62.

In Thursday night's luge doubles finals, Italy's team of Paul Hildgartner and Walter Plaikner and the East German duo of Horst Hornlein and Reinhard Bredow finished in a flat-footed tie for the gold with identical two-run times of 1:28.35.

In hockey, the United States kept its hope of a bronze medal alive by beating Finland 4-1 with goalie Mike Curran, the hero of the Yanks' earlier 5-1 upset of Czechoslovakia, once again displaying brilliant goaltending in the face of the Finns' 36-shot attack.

The victory, the second in four games for the United States, put the Americans one point back of third-place Sweden, which lost 2-1 to the Czechs.

The defending champion Soviet Union gained sole possession of first place in the Class A standings, a point ahead of the Czechs, with a 9-3 pounding of Poland.

Craig Sarnier of St. Paul, Minn., put the United States on the scoreboard after just 15 seconds of play, but Lauri Mononen tied it for Finland four minutes later on a power play.

The United States took the lead for good midway in the opening period as Henry Boucha of Warroad, Minn., fired in a pass from Sarnier.

Then, while Curran held off the rest of the Finns' attacks, Frank Sanders of St. Paul and Kevin Ahearn of Milton, Mass., wrapped up the American scoring.

Miss Henning's coach, Ed Rudolph, from—you guessed it, that same Chicago suburb—said the instant of the foul might have wrecked the winning chances of many competitors.

"How many girls of her age would have survived a moment like that? She came through it with the poise of a veteran. She's a marvel!" he said.

Anne, on the outside lane coming to the cross-over, had precedence. "We were pretty even... maybe Sylvia was slightly ahead. She crossed in front of me and, to avoid a collision, I stood up and slowed down."

"I thought I had lost the lap. But I kept telling myself to keep skating and not look down."

International Ski Federation was trying to conform to IOC rules, now that it is investigating Annie Famose of France for doing a radio commentary on Alpine events for a European station, Brundage said: "It's a good sign, but a very mild one in view of the enormous violations over the years."

Brundage charged FIS with being dishonest. "We are not through with FIS. They allow athletes to violate the rules through the years and tell us unofficially the rules have been broken. Then they force athletes to sign entry forms claiming they have competed within the rules. We don't like it. I call that dishonest," he said.

Ave Brundage Proposes End of Winter Olympics

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI)—Avery Brundage, veteran president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), said today Winter Olympic competition should be stopped because it is "not universal" and plagued with scandal.

In an exclusive interview with United Press International, the 84-year-old Chicago millionaire who has headed the IOC for 20 years took pains to praise the organization of the Xth Winter Olympics at Sapporo.

At the same time, however, he repeated his contention there should be no Winter Games at all.

"The Winter Games are not universal," he said. "There is also the problem of weather location and the ski scandals which have been with us for the last 10 years."

Brundage often has said many top Alpine skiers are, in fact, professionals and as such should not be allowed to participate in the Olympics, which are for amateurs only.

He said the arrangements for the Sapporo Games are almost perfect. The facilities are excellent, while there is an abundance of snow, something we have not had in the past.

"Indeed, some of the sites are really beautiful. The biathlon course, for instance, is one of the prettiest I have seen. And, of course, events get off exactly as scheduled."

He said the Japanese deserve to be congratulated for the staging of a highly successful Games.

Brundage, an arch-rival of the Winter Games primarily because of the cost and the commercialization of Alpine skiing, added: "But we must look at the Winter Games from the overall points of view."

"I understand the Japanese have spent nearly $600 million on these games. Not all of the money has gone on the Games sites, but very substantial part of it has. This is excessive for 10 days of winter sports involving some 1,500 athletes, especially when you consider only 15 odd countries are represented in all the events. Two Filipino skiers can hardly be called a team, by way of example," he said.

Brundage, who has been president of the IOC since 1952 and plans to retire from the post at the conclusion of the Summer Games in Munich, also took on the question of Austria's Karl Schranz, the 33-year-old superstar of the Alpine circuit who was booted out of the Games before he could compete for the Olympic gold medal that has eluded him in 18 years of competition.

Brundage said "Mr. Schranz earned his living from skiing for 18 years. I believe that speaks for itself and proves my points."

"Mr. Schranz did not need to compete in the Games. He has capitalized on his Olympic fame. The reception he received on his return to Vienna from members of the Austrian government, and the excitement it caused shows that sport has become a political factor in that country."

"We (IOC) do not like it when an Austrian minister contacts his counterparts in other countries in an effort to take over the Olympic Games. No sir, we do not like it."

Reminded that Schranz was not alone in violating Olympic rules and that similar cases can be brought against those who compete in the Summer Games, Brundage said: "There may be isolated cases, and we need proof of these, but none are so blatant."

Asked whether he thought the

International Ski Federation was trying to conform to IOC rules, now that it is investigating Annie Famose of France for doing a radio commentary on Alpine events for a European station, Brundage said: "It's a good sign, but a very mild one in view of the enormous violations over the years."

Then they force athletes to sign entry forms claiming they have competed within the rules. We don't like it. I call that dishonest," he said.

Jabbar Hits 53 In 'Mild' Spree

By GARY KALE

UPI Sports Writer
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar doesn't pay attention to basketball records. His main focus is on a winning score.

Abdul-Jabbar went on a mild hitting streak when he netted 12 straight floor shots Wednesday night in Milwaukee's 126-121 victory over Cleveland. His accuracy, however, was far short of the record 35 straight baskets for Wilt Chamberlain achieved over a four-game span, Feb. 17-28, 1967.

The Milwaukee star connected for 23 field goals during the Cleveland game and finished with 53 points, matching his previous National Basketball Association high scored against Cleveland on Nov. 4, 1970, and duplicated against Boston on Jan. 27, 1971.

"I don't know whether this is the best I've ever shot in the NBA," Abdul-Jabbar said. "I don't remember too much about records."

The NBA's leading scorer said at the moment his concern was staying ahead of Chicago in the Midwest Division race.

"This is a very crucial part of the season and Chicago is still close," Abdul-Jabbar added. "But we'll do all right because Lucius Allen and Wally Jones are helping pick up the scoring slack while Oscar (Robertson) is out."

Cleveland kept surprisingly close in the first half and finished at intermission with a 65-41 tie. But Abdul-Jabbar hit eight for eight from the field in the third quarter as Milwaukee grabbed a 96-87 lead going into the final period. He made his first four shots in the last period before his string broke. Walt Wesley paced the Cavs with 23 points.

In other games, Los Angeles edged Atlanta, 117-113; Boston routed Buffalo, 139-112, and New York trounced Detroit, 126-102.

Jerry West, who scored 33 points in a game with New York Tuesday night, tallied 31 against Atlanta. He scored the last four points of the game as Los Angeles rallied from an 11-point deficit with about eight minutes remaining to win its 49th game against just seven losses. Pete Maravich, held to seven points in the first half, finished as Atlanta's high scorer with 28 points.

Boston won its eighth consecutive game and remained six games ahead of New York in the Atlantic Division as the Celtics romped past Buffalo. Jo White paced a Boston attack, that had seven players in double figures, with 24 points. Bob Caffman led the Braves with 23.

New York, continuing with a disability—a game lineup crushed Detroit behind Walt Frazier's 31 points. This time it was Dave DeBusschere who was sidelined with a heel bruise. Jimmy Walker paced the Pistons with 24 points.

Giacomin Real No. 1

By United Press International.
The record says that Ed Giacomin is the New York's No. 2 goalie but the Rangers say he is the National Hockey League's No. 1 goalie.

Giacomin's goals-against average this season is almost one full goal higher than teammate Gilles Villeneuve's 1.83 mark but the record doesn't tell the story as far as the Rangers and their rivals are concerned.

"That guy is unbelievable," says Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks. "He is the best goalie in the league."

Giacomin turned aside 41 shots and missed only a second period shot by Hull Wednesday night as the Rangers defeated the Black Hawks 4-1. Billy Fairbairn scored two goals and Ted Irvine and Rod Gilbert one each for the Rangers, who are seven points behind the first place Boston Bruins in the NHL East Division.

The Minnesota North Stars, second to the Hawks in the West Division, defeated the Los Angeles Kings, 4-1, as Jude Drouin scored one goal and assisted on two others. Drouin's goal gave the North Stars a 2-1 lead at 5:34 of the first period and Danny Grant and Bob Nevin added goals in the third period. It was the final game of the season between the teams and gave the North Stars a perfect 6-0 record.

Ken Schinkel scored a goal and had two assists and Jim Rutherford made 33 saves leading the Pittsburgh Penguins to a 4-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs. It was only the Penguins' fourth victory in their last 27 games.

Ivan Boldirev's 40-foot shot midway through the second period was the deciding goal as the California Seals defeated the Philadelphia Flyers, 3-2. Gilles Meloche, the Seals' goalie, picked up his first NHL assist on the play. Bobby Clarke of the Flyers and the Seals' Carol Vadnais traded goals in the first period before Norm Ferguson and Boldirev connected in the second for California.

Gamble Suffers Heart Attack

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Goalie Bruce Gamble of the Philadelphia Flyers was in serious hospital condition in Merritt Island following an apparent heart attack.

Gamble, 33, flew here with the team from Vancouver Wednesday but was unable to go on the ice for the Flyers' 3-2 defeat Wednesday night by the California Golden Seals.

Instead, he was hospitalized, and Dr. Joseph Clift said his condition had stabilized by Wednesday night but that the next two to four days could be critical.

Late Wednesday night a hospital spokesman said Dr. Clift considered Gamble's condition satisfactory "and we're just watching him very closely for tonight."

Clift said, "It's possible he suffered a seizure some time during or after the game" by Vancouver, and said Gamble also was suffering from high blood pressure and exhaustion.

Scares for Top-Ranked

Louisville and Virginia weren't too happy with the script but they had to be pleased with the ending.

Louisville, the nation's No. 4 club, needed baskets by Jim Price and Ron Thomas in the last two minutes to hold off Wichita State, 65-64, and ninth-ranked Virginia, with sophomore guard Steve Morris converting a free throw with four seconds left in overtime, edged West Virginia, 89-88.

Price, Louisville's high scorer with 17 points, hit a jump shot 1:57 left to give the Cardinals a 63-62 lead and Thomas collected a basket at the 51-second mark to put Louisville ahead by three. Terry Benton scored uncontested for Wichita State at the final buzzer.

The victory left Louisville with a 7-1 record and in first place in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Cardinals are 17-2 overall.

Virginia had to struggle to overcome a 40-point effort by W. Robinson and defeat West Virginia. With the game tied at 81-88, Morris missed the first of a two-shot foul but made good on the second for the winning point.

Jim Hobgood had 22 points to lead Virginia, now 17-1. Barry Parkhill, the Cavaliers' top scorer, was held to 11 points and fouled out at the end of regulation time.

In other action involving rated clubs, Marquette (2) routed Xavier (Ohio), 89-59. Maryland, tied for 17th, ripped Duquesne, 85-71, and Villanova, also tied for 17th, was upset by Niagara, 89-83.

Marquette, with 6-11 Jim Chones scoring 22 points and grabbing 21 rebounds, boosted its record to 18-0 by ripping Xavier and Maryland's Len Elmore outduelled Duquesne's Lionel Billings in a battle of 6-9 sophomores centers as Maryland stopped Duquesne. Elmore had 27 points and 17 rebounds while Billings scored 20. Both teams now are 15-3.

Marshall Wingate and Al Williams teamed for 56 points and Niagara held off two torrid Villanova rallies to upset the Wildcats. Wingate had 30 points and Williams 26 as Niagara sent Villanova to its sixth loss in 19 games.

Elsewhere, reserve forward Chuck Wichman's driving layup with one second left boosted Syracuse to a 90-89 victory over Fordham. Greg Kohls had 31 points for Syracuse while Bart Woytowicz had 21 and Kenny Charles 20 for the Rams.

Ulster Breezes Past Sullivan, 91 to 42

By IRA FUSFELD

STONE RIDGE — Ulster County Community College's basketball team has a big game coming up Saturday at Kingsborough, but if Senator Coach Mike Perry was hoping his club would get a decent tune-up here Wednesday evening he might have been better off trying an intra-squad contest.

Instead the Senators went through the paces against Sullivan and destroyed the visiting Generals, 91-42, before a good mid-week crowd in the Senate Gym.

"This certainly wasn't much of a test for Kingsborough," Perry conceded following the laughter. "We were trying to concentrate on defense and I guess we did a pretty good job, but holding Sullivan isn't much of an accomplishment."

There seemed to be other things on Perry's mind as he thought ahead to the Kingsborough encounter, which is figured to be the last big test before the Regional tournament next month. Not the least among those thoughts was the condition of two of his key players physically and of one academically. Ulster (19-1) went without center Coleman Link and forward Nelson Marcelle against Sullivan. Link was hampered by a sore arm and Marcelle was waiting for word on a course he had to complete.

Neither was needed Wednesday, certainly not against a team as weak as Sullivan and with guys like Gary McDonald, Cliff Weeks, Linnell Marshall and the rest doing bang up jobs. But to compound the situation, high scorer Henry Nixon pulled up lame and may have suffered a muscle pull in the groin area. If Ulster was to go into its next game minus Nixon, Link and Marcelle, it might be hurting. So Perry has that to toy with the next couple of days. What he can be thankful for is the tremendous depth he possesses. The Sullivan game was a perfect example.

The Senators started with Pete Koola, Jackie Knowles, Weeks, Nixon and Walter Lloyd but, as is his habit, Perry was soon utilizing the Stone Ridge shuttle to give everyone a shot at doing his own thing.

McDonald, who continues earning his "Super Sub" tag, wasted little time in pouring in 20 footers and eventually tallied a game high 18 points. But Gary also is playing some defense this season, increasing his worth 100 per cent.

"He really is something," Perry noted. "The thing about McDonald is that he's always scrapping, always hustling. He's doing quite a job."

Further down the bench there was Marshall, who worked well under the hoop and registered 14 points.

And fellows like Pat Harder (10 points), Val Williams and the recently added Ron Lindsay and Rich DeLosa give Ulster a team as deep as any Perry has ever coached.

With the reserves playing most of the night, Ulster still hit on a crisp 53 per cent of its shots (39 for 74) and just kept wearing down the out-classed Generals (5-16) until the final margin was recorded. That 49-point spread was the widest of the game.

While the victory didn't hurt Ulster's position in the eyes of national and regional pollsters, it also kept the Senators' seemingly forgotten Mid-Hudson Conference record intact. UCCU is now 6-0, a game and a half in front of Dutchess.

The Ulster quintet has another conference game at home next Thursday against Orange Community led by Sam Quimby, one of the top scorers in the region.

KHS Clinches DCSL Swim Title

NEW PALTZ — Kingston High School had just beaten John Jay in a varsity swimming meet here Thursday, 78-17, to clinch the Dutchess County Scholastic League championship in this, its first season in the loop. Afterwards, Coach Ron Gabriele was forced to take a little more ribbing about the pessimistic attitude he'd taken before competition began in December.

"It's really something," Gabriele smiled, "but everywhere I go people are getting on me about the prediction that was in the paper." He meant a pre-season outlook which said that

Kingston would be a rebuilding team with a chance for third place in the DCSL. "But if I was to start all over again I'd probably say the same thing. I mean, how can you figure the success of three freshmen and a couple of juniors who never had any experience before?"

It has been success that Gabriele has received however and it's not too unusual. The DCSL championship represents the third straight league crown (the past two in the DUSO League) and the fourth in five years. The win extended this season's record to 8-0 and kept Kingston in the undefeated class in its adopted home in Elting Gym on the New Paltz State campus (where the team has one more meet this season, Monday against Newburgh). The clincher was by one of the largest margins ever for a Kingston team and Gabriele had his regrets about that.

"After the meet I went over to the Jay coach and apologized for running up the score. What I was trying to do was experiment in several positions for Thursday's meet at Pine Bush, which is a very strong team, and everyone came through."

That everyone did come through was best evidenced by a quick glance at the score sheet which showed only one event won by a Jay swimmer, the 100 yard breaststroke.

Kingston had six double winners, all of whom won a single event and took part in a victorious relay. The pair of victories for junior Claude Landerway, extended his record to 16-0.

Another highlight for KHS was Spider Rifenbary's fine 4:35.5 in the 400 yard freestyle. Other Maroon firsts were recorded by John Edwards, Jack Abernathy, Kent St. John, Jim Gogg, Dennis Roth, Bobby Winrow, and Tom Loneragan.

And the coach said he didn't have a good team!

Sawyers Win In Overtime

SAUGERTIES — The two players generally considered to be the best in the Dutchess County Scholastic basketball League went at it head-to-head here Wednesday with the hometown star and his team coming out on top.

Saugerties High, led by Rich Koegel's 22 points, 23 rebounds, and five assists, stopped second-place John Jay, 70-68, in overtime.

"You'd have to say that Koegel and Roury Williams are the leading candidates for MVP in the DCSL," commented Sawyer Coach Larry Marcus after the cliffhanger. "And Rich did a tremendous job against Williams. Those four baskets that Williams scored were all on 'garbage.' Koegel really held him down."

Koegel had to share post-game accolades with teammates Joe Hellenschmidt and Tom Whitaker who were big figures down the stretch in the exciting overtime contest.

Whitaker, who had 20 points for the night, hit 10 in the fourth period including a bucket, with 18 seconds left to tie the game, sending it into the extra session. Jay had one more try to win before the overtime, but Saugerties was able to keep the visitors from getting a good shot.

Then in the "fifth" period, Hellenschmidt and Koegel split the Sawyers' six points down the middle. Joe's free throw with 30 seconds left proved to be the winning point.

Things were tense right down to the buzzer, however. After Hellenschmidt's foul shot, the Patriots missed from the outside and were forced to hack Koegel. Rich made one shot with 10 seconds remaining. Jay then took a last second shot which went around the basket and out.

Among those who came in for JOHN JAY (68) SAUGERTIES (70) were:

Marist Defeats NP Grapplers

POUGHKEEPSIE — Marist College handed New Paltz State its first wrestling loss of the season here Wednesday by a 30-21 count.

The home town Red Foxes spotted their visitors from across the river a 21-12 lead before coming up with wins in the final three bouts to pull out the overall victory.

New Paltz, now 4-2, received triumphs from Steve LoTurco, Mark Ellison, Paul Seltzer, and Bruce Hartjen. Ellison's 58 second pin of Jim Lacey in the 150 lb. class was the fastest of the night.

The Hawks' next action is in the NAIA District Tournament on Feb. 19.

Marist 30 — New Paltz 21

118—Mike Hawk (M) won by forfeit.

128—No contest.

Geneseo Humbles New Paltz, 101-76

GENESEOFERING its 11th defeat in 14 games, had five men in Palz State's basketball team plus ten range as Steve Fuller doesn't have a heck of a lot registered. Dan Valdez of size and that was the chief reason for its 101-76 defeat at Dan Rogers, and Bruce the hands of Geneseo State here Wednesday.

The winners moved steadily in front in the first half and piled up a 52-36 lead at the buzzer. Not much changed after intermission.

The Hawks get back into action on Saturday at Oswego State.

Elsewhere in New York State action, Potsdam overcame a nine-point deficit and connected on 24 or 28 free throws to beat Utica, 78-75; a 12-point spurge for second half openers set figure efforts from Tom Basher Albany State for an 83-70 victory over Hamilton. It was the Daves' 17th straight home triumph.

UCCCC Matmen Lose Again

STONE RIDGE — The pattern continues for Ulster County Community College's wrestling team.

Coach Mark Cranfield's U-Tri-C grapplers keep winning the first three matches and little else. That was the story again here Wednesday as Dutchess beat Ulster, 48-18.

Keith Christian, Peter Nekos and Tom Coddington helped Ulster open up an 18-0 lead, the latter two with pins. Then bout after bout went against the Senators and Dutchess managed to come up on top.

To make matters worse, Bill Young, the 177-pound matman who had been able to pick up some points for Ulster in the past, was injured in his match, lost it by default, and was taken to Kingston Hospital for shoulder X-rays.

The win for Nekos at 126 pounds was a 4:05 pin for John Bovee, Coddington, at 134, beat Ozzie DeLa Cruz by a fall in 7:08. Both former Rondout Valley High grapplers are undefeated in dual matches.

Christian won by forfeit. Ulster is away on Saturday for a triangular against Nassau and Middlesex Community College teams.

The results:

Dutchess 42 — Ulster 18

115—Keith Christian (U) won by forfeit.

126—Pete Nekos (U) pinned John Bovee, 4:05.

134—Tom Coddington (U) pinned Oswald DeLa Cruz, 7:08.

142—Bill Hicks (D) pinned Jim Ring, 2:21.

150—Kevin Clarke (D) pinned John Pittello, 2:47.

158—Glenn Brewer (D) pinned Ray Teitler, 1:41.

167—Bruce Patterson (D) won by forfeit.

177—Ed Schurr (D) won by default.

190—Rick Kevi (D) won by forfeit.

Heavyweight—Chris Michales (D) pinned Bob Gorsline, 1:45.

Sunshine Aids Golf At Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—There is nothing like the warm California desert country and four relatively easy courses to perk up an old man's game.

The weather and the layouts were kind to oldsters such as Bob Rosburg, Jimmy Powell, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Dave Marr, Tom Niepote, Charlie Sifford, Arnold Palmer and Al Geiberger Wednesday in the opening round of the marathon Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Rosburg, who hasn't won a tournament title since he took the 1961 Crosby, and young Jerry Heard, playing in the Hope for the first time, had the best rounds of opening day in the 90 hole Hope, both shooting six-under-par 66s to share the lead by a stroke.

Powell, who at 37 is eight years younger than Rosburg, and Chuck Courtney shot 67s to place a stroke off the pace, while Jack Nicklaus, playing in the Hope for the first time in four years, Rodriguez, who can't remember the last time he won anything of consequence, Dave Stockton and Mike Higgins were another stroke back at 68.

Marr, Niepote, Sifford, Palmer and Geiberger were among a dozen players at 69 as a total of 44 players shot under par on a pleasant day with no wind, a warm sun beaming down and the temperature at 80.

"No one could ask for a better day," said Rosburg, who credits a lesson from the Heard, playing in the Hope for the first time, had the best rounds of opening day in the 90 hole Hope, both shooting six-under-par 66s to share the lead by a stroke.

"I've got a bad cold so I probably appreciate this warm weather more than most," said Palmer, who is a four-time Hope winner and the defending champion. "It kind of dried up my sinuses."

special praise from Marcus were two recently elevated JV players, Scott Emery and Tom Panella.

The win evened Saugerties' league record at 5-5 and boosted its overall mark to 9-5. Jay was dropping its fourth league game to all but end its title hopes. Lourdes, the once-beaten leaders, come to Saugerties on Friday.

In Wednesday's JV game, Saugerties took a thriller, 35-33. Doc Salinovich scored 10 points and Scott Wilson added nine.

OCS—Liberty Eligible

KINGSTON — The Section Nine high school basketball committee has voted to consider Ontario and Liberty eligible for this year's tournament.

Both Ulster County Athletic League schools had been forced to forfeit part of their schedules for use of an ineligible player earlier in the season, but both only if either divisional champion or overall winner of the UCLAL race is also picked.

Stefano and Athletic Director Joe Friedel noted that their team would play if invited, but had earlier indicated that he hoped the ineligible player on his team would not hurt his chances for the tournament.

The finals are set for Saturday afternoon and evening March 11 in Ulster County Community College's Senate Gym. That's a switch from recent seasons when the tourney was played at New Paltz State.

Maroon Skiers Top NP

WOODRIDGE, in the New Paltz encounter, but Kingston High School's girls skiers kept on the winning track and the boys rebounded for their first loss here Wednesday in a sweep of New Paltz.

The girls won, 199-312, and the boys were triumphant, 167-200.

Tuesday Kingston had split with Fallsburg with the girls scoring a 215.60-259.70 win and the boys losing 175.15-178.45.

The Maroons are 6-1 in both girls and boys dual meets and charge the lead in the DUSO League with Fallsburg.

Against New Paltz, Kingston survived a fall by its top girl Nancy Kolln, to win handily. Linda Conway led the Maroons to a sweep of the first eight places.

Pete Fowler paced the boys

Pete fell in the Fallsburg meet for the first time this season and that was enough of a break to push the Comets to the victory.

Ruiz, 33, formerly of the Cincinnati Reds and the California Angels, was scheduled to report to the Kansas City Royals Feb. 20. He had become a naturalized U.S. citizen a month ago.

A native of Santo Domingo, Cuba, where his given names were Hiraldo Salbon, Ruiz was alone in the car when he apparently lost control of it early Wednesday morning, the California Highway Patrol said. He is survived by his widow and two young daughters who lived with him in northern San Diego County.

Friday Funeral For Chico Ruiz

FRIDAY FUNERAL — Hd ... SAN DIEGO (AP) — Funeral services are scheduled Friday for veteran infielder Chico Ruiz, who was killed when the car he was driving ran off Interstate 15 and smashed into a sign pole.

Ruiz, 33, formerly of the Cincinnati Reds and the California Angels, was scheduled to report to the Kansas City Royals Feb. 20. He had become a naturalized U.S. citizen a month ago.

A native of Santo Domingo, Cuba, where his given names were Hiraldo Salbon, Ruiz was alone in the car when he apparently lost control of it early Wednesday morning, the California Highway Patrol said. MORE AND MORE AMERICANS ARE BEING DRIVEN TO THIS CONCLUSION.

The Police Department of the City of Detroit removes 20,000 abandoned cars from its roadsides annually. The toll is even higher elsewhere. But your car doesn't have to be a statistic.

It can be a Volvo. Volvos are built to stay on the road for years, instead of collapsing prematurely beside it.

Exactly how long a Volvo will last is unknown. But in Sweden, eleven years is average. So beat your car to the punch. Trade it in on one of our Volvos. Before it abandons you.

DISCUSS FINANCES—Financing the Saugerties Jaycee Fourth of July celebration is a mammoth task, according to James DeToles, finance committee chairman who is already making plans for the annual event. Planning with him are (L.) William Warner, Walter Gustafson, James DeToles and Ted Corea.

Police Report Issued

SAUGERTIES

Town of Saugerties Police answered 166 complaints and covered a total of 7,705 miles on patrol during January.

The monthly report prepared by Chief of Police Robert J. Riley noted that the department made 13 vehicle accident reports, issued eight uniform traffic tickets and 89 all night parking ban tickets, arrested three persons on complaints and made two family death notifications.

Chief Riley reported that full time patrolmen put in 456 hours and part time patrolmen 216 hours during January, with dispatchers logging 281½ hours. A total of $572 was paid to local courts on violations incurred.

The department provides 16 hours of cover daily for seven days a week with Chief Riley and Assistant Chief Hommel on call during the remaining eight hours by telephone tap recording.

Male Student Hit As Attacks Continue

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—A male student was attacked late Wednesday on the University of Oregon campus—the fourth such incident in the past two weeks. An 18-year-old coed was stabbed to death in her dormitory Tuesday.

Two other girls were attacked last week but escaped with only slight injuries.

Authorities said Michael Clarence Stinson was struck from behind with a weapon of some type near Weatherford Hall. He was taken to the Student Health Service, where he was reported in satisfactory condition.

No details of the attack were released, but a law enforcement source said that because of the location of the latest attack, there was a possibility it was connected with Tuesday morning's slaying of Nancy Diane Wyckoff.

Mrs. Wyckoff's parents said Wednesday their daughter's body would be cremated and the ashes sent to Glendale, Calif., for burial.

Mrs. Brian Wyckoff said they were "not up to" having a funeral for the freshman honor student, described by her mother as "a 1972 girl, a now girl in the finest sense—I don't mean drugs or riots."

"I sent Nancy here believing she would be safe," Mrs. Wyckoff said of the 15,000 student Oregon State University in this quiet community 80 miles south of Portland.

Investigators have so far had no clues as to the motive or the suspect.

A native of Brooklyn, she graduated from St. Brendan's High School and Mercy Secretarial College, both in Brooklyn.

Cost Sharing Applications Are Accepted

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced today that the county office will accept applications for cost sharing in the 1972 Rural Environmental Assistance Program. The enrollment period runs through March 1.

In announcing the sign-up period, John Snyder, chairman of the ASC Committee said that "in considering applications by farmers as individuals or in groups, the County ASC Committee will give first priority to those which will best improve the community environment and provide the most public benefits."

Encouragement will be given to such farmland conservation measures as permanent grass cover, sod waterways, planting trees, and to practices which help reduce pollution from animal wastes, pesticides and fertilizers.

Anyone interested in applying for cost-sharing under the 1972 REAP should go to the County ASCS office at 54 John Street.

Say "I love you" in a way that's new . . .

with a

CLASSIFIED CUPID AD

in The Daily Freeman

A SPECIAL CLASSIFIED FEATURE ON FEB. 14

February 14th is St. Valentine's Day. On that Monday The Daily Freeman will feature a NEW way for you to say "I love you" to your special person. Or maybe several special people. And don't forget to check the Classified Cupid Ads yourself to find out if there's a message for you from an admirer.

Here to inspire you are a few sample messages:

ANN: Be my Valentine and make me happy forever. GERRY
BILL: Be my love tomorrow and all of my life. IRENE
CAROL: The best Valentine anyone could have. All my love. GENE SUE: I love you when the going's easy, I love you when the going's rough; Won't you be my Valentine, And all that kind of stuff. LEE

Your Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A really mixed-up day with an equal number of difficult and beneficial planetary aspects that may keep you from being able to put through the course of action that is vital to your progress. Watch what is happening and avoid putting new ideas into effect until they have really jelled for your use.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to get higher-ups to give you the backing you need, but be very diplomatic about it. Don't give in to that feeling of impatience you have. Take it easy tonight and do not argue with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although your ideas are good, your judgment is not, so await a better day to put them across to others. Just so long as you get them well outlined now, all is fine. Out for social activities early in p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have to use caution in handling all of your affairs today, whether of a business or personal nature, especially with the government. Not a good day to consult with advisers, since they all have different opinions.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are somewhat suspicious of partners today, but you can trust them. If you make radical changes, you can regret them very quickly. Get busy at work ahead of you and all is fine.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Keeping busy at work ahead of you and being cooperative with others is fine, since you are in the mood for just that. Find the right method of procedure that will help you advance considerably. Drive carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ideal day to plan a new wardrobe as well as social and recreational affairs for the weeks, months ahead. Listening to what loved one has to say now is fine, but don't give any advice as yet. Sleep on it first.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A fine day to analyze well the conditions at home but not to make radical changes there as yet. Bringing up any moot points could lead to real trouble there now. Do not lose your temper with anyone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you sit down with associates and clear up your relationship with them, you can have a more profitable and satisfying partnership together. Plan the changes that are to be made. Do not work on them until tomorrow, though.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listening carefully to what successful persons have to say is fine, but do not jump into new outlets without proper study first. Right preparation is the key to advancement. There are big opportunities ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are more diplomatic with others instead of being forceful, you gain your aims easily and properly. Making sure you are well dressed is fine. Realize the importance of making a good impression on others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do not give in to friends who want to take you away from important duties you feel you have to perform today. Refuse them courteously and take a rain check. Plan to solve personal problems while at work, also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have an opportunity to have a good time with congenials and should do so instead of going after a bigwig who is not available now. Know what your personal aims are and put wheels in motion to gain them. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants to be famous and changes that are to be made. As parents to give every opportunity you can so this dream can be realized, since your son, daughter, has the ability to combine all that is good from the past with whatever is worthwhile in this 20th century. Should be permitted to go to the best schools where such a mind can grow and be taught the best.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

SCARS: (Q.) When I was very young I was terribly burned on my legs. I was not crippled, but bad scars were left on the back of both legs. I do not have much money for doctors, but three plastic surgeons I have talked to say they cannot help me because of the pigment of my skin. (I'm black.) I believe there is a God and that something CAN be done.

I'm so weary of wearing long pants, knee socks, and thick stockings to hide the scars. Please tell me what else I can do—Black Girl in Alabama.

(A.) Go back to one of the surgeons and ask him to give you the names and addresses of the most highly skilled men in his field anywhere in the country—maybe in New York City or Boston or Baltimore or Houston.

Write to these men, just as you have written to me. Put God into your letters, just as you put Him into the one you wrote me. Ask them to help you if they can.

I, too, believe SOMETHING can be done.

POSTER PLEA: (Q.) My parents are super-strict. I have nine black light posters but no black light. They won't let me get one. To look at my posters I have to borrow one of my friends' lights. They all have one, or more.

When I ask my mother or father why I can't have one, they say nothing. I need help—No light in Louisiana.

(A.) Your parents may be suspicious of the black light fad. It is fairly new, and for some older people a little spooky.

Or they may object to your friends, all of whom seem to be black light faddists.

Or it may be money, or something else.

Talk to them about these possibilities, including the "something else." Be honest with them. Be understanding too.

'DISRUPTION' DEMONSTRATION — Youths attack British Army vehicles in Londonderry during "Day of Disruption" demonstration. For the most part, the long heralded "Day of Disruption" planned by the Roman Catholics for the whole of Northern Ireland was a dismal failure by their own admission. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A gelignite bomb concealed in a corrugated iron hut blocking a road 40 miles east of Belfast exploded early today, blowing the leg off a British army officer and wounding a second soldier.

The violence followed a province-wide "day of disruption" Wednesday that even its civil rights organizers termed a disaster when it received little popular support. The demonstration protested a six-month-old policy of jailing suspected members of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) without trial.

The explosion today near Coalisland came seconds after the two servicemen, looking for booby traps, had examined the hut and several oil drums that had been abandoned in the road.

"It was dark and they couldn't see anything, so they stood aside and ordered the pig (an armored car) up to push the obstruction aside," an army spokesman said. "As soon as the pig hit the hut it went off."

Earlier in Belfast, a gunman firing from a passing car hit a reserve policeman in the leg while he was standing outside a bar.

In the Roman Catholic Ballymurphy district of the capital, troops firing at a sniper wounded a 14-year-old boy in the stomach.

The army said they were not certain the boy was the gunman but "what we do know is that the IRA are using lads of his age in that area."

The IRA wants to unite by force predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland with the largely Catholic Irish Republic. In Londonderry, near the spot where British soldiers killed 13 civilians on Jan. 30, three youths hurled two beer cans packed with gelignite under a patrolling armored car. The soldiers leaped out, and the bombs exploded seconds later destroying the vehicle.

Kevin Boyle, a leader of the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association which seeks to prevent discrimination against the minority Catholic population, said the Wednesday protest failed because demonstrators were worn down mentally.

"We had almost two weeks mourning over (Londonderry) and with the massive confrontation in Newry Sunday it was just too much to hope for a full organizational effort so soon again," Boyle said.

He said the civil rights group planned a march protesting internment on the ninth day of every month until the policy was abandoned. The policy was initiated Aug. 9.

Point Spread Lowers Cost of Buying Home

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal mortgage rates are the same. The reason is a narrowing in the past few months of the so-called "point spread."

Points, which are charged to sellers of homes at the time a mortgage is closed and are normally passed on to buyers in the form of higher prices, amount to a one-time mortgage surcharge imposed by the lender.

Mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations charge points in order to make up the difference between the 7 per cent federal ceiling on mortgage rates for Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration loans and the rate of return on alternative investments such as corporate bonds.

The 7 per cent ceiling has been in effect for more than a year but as interest rates have eased, the number of points tacked onto government-backed mortgages has fallen from the neighborhood of 8 to 9½ last summer to about 4½ points currently, the Mortgage Bankers Association of America says. An eight-point spread is the equivalent of about 1 per cent of interest.

The drop in the point spread means that a $20,000 home could be financed through FHA and VA loans for $700 to $900 less than last summer, according to the bankers group. About a third of all mortgages are government backed, it says.

Grocery Prices Slated for Climb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Grocery prices may climb as much as 4 per cent this year, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday, revising upward an earlier forecast. A congressman charged the administration has been ineffective in dealing with "skyrocketing" food prices.

The Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service earlier had estimated the grocery price jump this year would be from 2 to 3.5 per cent.

Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., said he wanted a "full-scale investigation" of food prices by the Cost of Living Council. He contended there had been "ineffective policing" by the Price Commission. He said there were "increasing loopholes in price regulation."

The new predicted increase would surpass the 2.5 per cent annual guideline for price increases laid down by the Price Commission. However, it was pointed out that raw agricultural products are exempt from economic controls. Retailers are permitted under Phase II to pass along any added costs they incur.

The Economic Research Service also estimated that farm income perhaps would hit $17.7 billion in 1972. This would be a record and would compare to $15.7 billion in 1971. The previous record of $17.1 billion was set in 1947.

A three-day White House conference on business in 1990 ended Wednesday. Sen. Fred H. Harris, D-Okla., charged it had been a "festival of self-congratulation" for big business.

Harris contended that leaders of big labor unions and gadflies such as consumer advocate Ralph Nader and Federal Communications Commission member Nicholas Johnson purposely had been excluded from the conference.

About 1,500 delegates participated in the conference. Most of them were corporation executives.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans disputed Harris' criticism, saying "all points of view were well represented" at the conference. Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that United Auto Workers Vice President Pat Greathouse and Einar Mohn, director of the Western Conference of Teamsters, were participants.

Congress Receives Devalue Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has sent Congress a long-awaited bill to devalue the dollar by 8.57 per cent, while claiming success in trade talks with Japan and the Common Market.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally sent the devaluation proposal to Capitol Hill Wednesday, in the form of a 270-word bill that would raise the official price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce. Administration officials predicted prompt approval.

The administration thus carried out a pledge made last December when the richest non-Communist nations agreed on a new set of currency-exchange rates built around a dollar devaluation.

Accompanying the measure was a disclosure that substantive agreements have been reached with the Common Market and Japan to remove some of their barriers against U.S. exports.

"Regrettably, no agreements have been reached with Canada," Connally said in a letter to Congress. "The United States will seek appropriate means of reducing imbalance in trade agreements with that country."

Just what the administration meant by "appropriate means" in dealing with Canada was left unanswered. "I think all avenues are open," said Paul A. Volcker, undersecretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs.

William J. Eberle, President Nixon's special trade representative, said the administration is constantly in touch with the Canadians and could resume stalled talks at any time.

In Ottawa, Canadian Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said Connally apparently felt the proposed trade settlement "was not juicy enough ... for the United States."

Pepin told a news conference the Canadian government feels it proposed a reasonable compromise on such issues as trade in automobiles and defense equipment. He did not elaborate.

Dock Law Poised

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill forcing an end to the West Coast dock strike through compulsory arbitration is on President Nixon's desk for use if a tentative agreement already reached by negotiators falls apart.

Leaders of the striking longshoremen are scheduled to vote Saturday on whether to accept the agreement and end the 125-day strike, and Nixon plans to delay signing the bill to see what happens.

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats rushed the bill through the House by a vote of 214 to 139, saying the measure would serve as insurance to back up the agreement.

But pro-labor Democrats, who urged the House to postpone action for a week, called it a club over the heads of union leaders and said it could jeopardize a settlement.

The bill, which passed the Senate 79 to 3 Tuesday, calls for an immediate end to the provide for voluntary arbitration panel with power to declare a binding settlement of all issues in the dispute.

The negotiated agreement awaiting a union vote would settle all the major issues and provide for voluntary arbitration of the lesser ones still unresolved.

Even if Nixon signs the bill, its procedures could be halted at any stage if a voluntary settlement is ratified by all parties to the dispute.

House debate on the bill centered as much on the procedure used to bring it to a vote as it did on the strike.

On the key vote that approved the Rules Committee's action 203 to 170 and brought the strike-settling bill to the floor, 64 Democrats, nearly all from Southern and Western farm areas, joined 139 Republicans to override the Democratic leadership. Only 10 Republicans deserted the administration and voted against the Rules Committee.

That vote determined the outcome and members showed little interest in the debate on the legislation itself.
